Federated Farmer-Labor Organization Formed Without Farmer-Labor Party—Red Actions Cheered.

Action of Farmer-Labor Caucus Charged With Being "Declaration of Independence From Bolsheviks."

THIRD INTERNATIONALE CHEERED BY DELEGATES.

Chicago, July 5.—Cheering the soviet government and the third internationale, delegates to the farmer-labor party's conference of political minorities here cast off the reins of the farmer-labor party Thursday night and formed the "federated farmer-labor party," which they hope to build into a powerful third political organization by 1924.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago, July 5.—The federated farmer-labor party, with a platform under the leadership of the workers' party of America, was born here tonight, but without the farmer-labor party, which refused to join. A substitute to the organization's committee platform was submitted by the caucus of the farmer-labor delegates, but was tabled by a vote of 10-9. One of the substitute's sections provided that no organization affiliated with the third internationale at Moscow could be a group to the party.

The caucus report offered the structure of the farmer-labor party as the basis of the new party organization, to be launched under its name, and to be open to affiliation by all groups whose doctrine did not advocate force and violence in obtaining control of political government. After it was voted down a motion was adopted to recess for the election of a national executive committee.

The substitute was feebly supported but elicited speeches of radical nature that repeatedly brought it to the conference, made up of delegates representing industrial and farm workers here meeting with the convention of the farmer-labor party. El Backus, newly arrived delegate from California, where he said he represented the non-partisan league, was the first to get the floor.

"I'm a red, have been a red from the beginning, and you can't get too much red for me," he shouted. "I'm a late party to the proceedings, but I'm here to put in a glorious finish. My constituents will stand for a lot of red action."

The action of the farmer-labor caucus was cheered by R. H. Walker, of North Dakota, legislative member elected by the non-partisan league, with being a declaration on its part of independence from the bolsheviks. "We've been called everything out in North Dakota but we're not afraid," he added.

To the Churches

Do you realize that every Sunday there are strangers in the city who would like to go to "their own" church? Then, too, there are newcomers who are making their homes here and almost the first thing they want to know is "their own" church. A notice in the Church Department of The Constitution would bring those people to "their church." Nowadays, the church that wants to do the most good must make itself known. It can be done in the church advertisements of The Constitution.

Britain and U. S. In Biggest Money Deal in History

British Government Bonds for $4,600,000,000 Hand-Over to U. S.

Washington, July 5.—The biggest financial deal in history was completed Thursday when Great Britain handed to the United States her government bonds to the amount of $4,600,000,000 and received in return cancelled I. O. U. for $4,074,818,353.44 which she gave when the huge war borrowings were made.

This exchange of definite British government bonds for the demand note was made in accordance with terms of the debt funding agreement reached here some time ago. The big transaction was closed in a purely routine way when the treasurer of the British embassy called at the treasury department.

GOVERNOR CALLS FOR COMMISSION ON TAX PROBLEMS

Suggests Special Meeting of Legislature in Fall and Shortening of the Present Session.

Governor Clifford M. Walker, in his promised message dealing with the tax problems of the state, which he sent to the general assembly Thursday and which was read before both houses, suggests the creation of a special commission to study the needs of the state in taxation, and the calling of a special session later in the year, after this committee has had time to complete its investigations and make its report and recommendations.

To do this, he suggested also, that the legislature might find the gratitude of the entire state by winding up its other affairs within thirty days, thus allowing for a special session of twenty days in the fall, to be devoted to the tax problem, without exceeding the fifty day limit set by the constitution for the annual session. In this way, he pointed out, the state would be spared the expense attached to an extra session called after the regular session has used up the entire fifty days' time.

Proposes Joint Commission.

On his tax commission, Governor Walker proposed that a joint committee from both senate and house be increased by adding members representative of the farmers, the business men, manufacturers, and other interests of the state. He would have this committee investigate the tax systems of other states and hold public hearings at central points in all sections of Georgia.

While making no specific request for the adoption of any cut and dried plan, the governor's message dealt at length with the taxation plans in operation in Kentucky and North Carolina and called these to the earnest attention of the lawmakers. He stated that it is probable that no plan adopted by any other state would be found entirely suitable to Georgia.

ELDERS PROPOSES NORTH CAROLINA PLAN OF TAXATION

Representative Shows Way by Which Constitutional Amendment May Be Passed Quickly.

STATE NEEDS AUDITOR SAYS SENATOR PACE

Declares Certain Department Heads Are Depositing Georgia Funds in Bank to Own Accounts.

A plan for a solving financial problems of the state including two correlated actions by the legislature, one of which requires an amendment of the constitution so as to provide revenues under methods which have proven successful in North Carolina, and the other creation of the office of state auditor, was outlined before the house appropriations committee by Representative Elders, of Taittall county, Thursday afternoon.

Simultaneous with the suggestion of an auditing department by Representative Elders, the vital need for such an office was stressed before the senate's judiciary committee No. 2, by Senator Stephen Pace, of the 13th district, who declared that certain state department officials should be curbed from drawing state maintenance funds and depositing these amounts to their individual drawing accounts in various banks.

Lax Business.

Senator Pace denounced such methods as lax business principles on the part of the state which he termed a corporation and which, he stated, should function like one. He was discussing the provisions of a bill which he introduced recently in the senate providing for the creation of a state auditing department which would make semi-annual audits of all departments receiving state funds.

Announcement of Representative Elders' plan following, as it did, the message of Governor Clifford M. Walker on taxation, read to both houses of the general assembly Thursday morning, was the central topic of conversation among legislators Thursday evening.

The Elders plan includes two actions by the legislature. The first has already been put under way by the introduction last Monday of Mr. Elders' bill to amend the constitution and provide revenue under the

Japan Is Seeking Soviet Alliance, Declares Visitor

Raymond Mills Tells of Trip He Recently Made to the Orient.

"Nothing but the greatest possible calm and serenity appear on the surface in Far Eastern affairs, but sinister influences are at work, which will some day disturb the peace of the world," said Raymond Mills, a merchant from Seattle, who is a guest at the Piedmont hotel and who recently made a visit to Japan and Korea.

"Japan has made extensive preparations to convince the world by means of press dispatches and other propaganda that her foreign policy has undergone a most radical change since the Washington disarmament conference. The world is led to believe that her attitude towards the Korean dependencies has changed and that the withdrawal from the southern part of Manchuria was accomplished because the government had given up imperial aggrandizement."

Why Japan Withdrew.

"Nobody has yet thought for a moment that Japan withdrew from Manchuria and Siberia because of military pressure brought to bear by the soviet troops. That is absurd on the surface, but the real reason for Nippon's evacuation was the intention of the Tokyo government to begin amicable relations with the Reds."

"Japan wants to steal a march on the western powers by catering to the

Struck by Train, Couple Is Found On Cow-Catcher

Farmer and Wife Have Miraculous Escape When Auto Is Totally Wrecked.

Norfolk, Va., July 5.—L. Johnson, a middle-aged farmer of Crittenden, Va., and his wife had a miraculous escape from death today when their automobile was struck by an Atlantic Coast line passenger train at a crossing near Suffolk.

The train was speeding at forty miles an hour when the Johnsons couple reached the crossing. The automobile was demolished. According to trainmen, the entire car "could have been picked up in a market basket." The train was brought to a stop nearly 100 yards from the crossing, and trainmen hastened back to aid the passengers of the automobile. They could find no trace of them in the vicinity of the wrecked automobile. A few minutes later, however, their whereabouts was disclosed.

Mr. Johnson, dazed, but otherwise little injured, was sitting on the running board of the engine, and his wife was perched on the locomotive's cow catcher. Both were taken to a Suffolk hospital where it was reported tonight that their injuries consisted merely of slight bruises and cuts.

FAILURE TO AID EUROPE SCORED BY UNDERWOOD

More Causes for War Existing in Europe Today Than in 1914, Declares Alabama Senator.

Washington, July 5.—More causes for war exist in Europe today than in 1914, Senator Underwood of Alabama, former democratic floor leader in the senate, declared today in a statement reviewing conditions as he found them during a trip abroad. While he contended the United States must aid Europe in adjusting its affairs, he asserted nothing in that direction could be accomplished by joining an international court of justice.

No reference was made in the statement to domestic politics, notwithstanding the senator's announcement before his departure for Europe that he would discuss on his return the possibility of becoming a presidential candidate.

Declaring that nothing had been done by the United States to assist in the solution of European problems, Senator Underwood insisted that this country could not escape its obligations. "If there is not war, he asserted, 'it will be solely because Europe is financially and economically exhausted.'"

Party to Causes of Strife.

"We are a party," he continued, "to the causes of the strife as they exist today in Europe, and theoretically it certainly is not necessary for our country to become involved. . . . We must remember that in 1914 when war broke in Europe we stood for peace. . . . In 1917 we were in the war and sons of America were dying on the battlefields of Europe. I can not believe that the people of America have forgotten their pledges to aid in securing the peace of the world; that they have forgotten that our men and women said we were fighting that we

GARY PROMISES EIGHT-HOUR DAY IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Abolition of Twelve-Hour Shift Dependent on Surplus of Labor, Harding Is Told.

PRESIDENT SAILS FOR ALASKAN PORT

Harding Leaves on Transport Henderson to Fulfill Desire to See "New American Wonder."

Aboard Transport Henderson, July 5.—It's northward ho for President Harding and his official party. At 2 p. m. Thursday they set sail on the Henderson from Tacoma to fulfill the desire Mr. Harding has cherished for two years to see the Alaskan land, which he regards as about to become a new American wonder.

Before he left, Mr. Harding, in a speech at Tacoma, announced that he had been promised by E. H. Gary and other directors of the American Iron and Steel institute that as soon as conditions warrant, the 12-hour day in the steel industry will be abolished and the 8-hour shift substituted.

Mr. Harding said that there was "a great forward step" in spite of the fact that Gary, in a letter to the president, simply said that it was generally agreed that the change was desirable, but that it could not be made until there was a surplus of labor. As Mr. Harding in his speech had been pointing with pride to the surplus of jobs over available workers, Gary's letter would appear to give little promise of an immediate change to the eight-hour day.

The president found in the letter, however, assurance to which he believes he can hold the steel industry when labor conditions are propitious. He congratulated the steel industry on the step and expressed the hope that other continuous shift industries would follow the example.

Gary's letter to the president said, in part:

"Undoubtedly there is a strong sentiment throughout the country in favor of eliminating the 12-hour day, and this we do not underestimate. On account of this sentiment and especially because it is in accordance with your own expressed views, we are determined to exert every effort at our command to secure in the iron and steel industry of this country a total abolition of the 12-hour day at the earliest time practicable. This means employment of large numbers of workmen on an eight-hour basis and all others on a basis of ten hours or less. Without an unjustifiable interruption to operations, the change can not be effected overnight. It will involve many adjustments, some of them complicated and difficult, but we think it can be brought about without undue delay when, as you state it, 'there is a surplus of labor available.'"

Revival of Ship Subsidy Bill.

Mr. Harding, in his Tacoma speech, promised the revival of the ship subsidy bill and return of the merchant marine to private operation as soon as congress could be brought above the level of obstructionists, who, Mr. Harding implied, killed the ship subsidy bill in the last congress by their filibuster. Until that time, he said, the flag will be kept on the sea even though it costs more than private operation would.

Noted Tragedienne Tells Tale of Husband's Brutality in Court.

Providence, R. I., July 5.—Ethel Barrymore, noted tragedienne, moved in an atmosphere of tragedy at home as well as on the stage, it was revealed in testimony leading to her divorce Thursday.

Justice George W. Greene granted her a decree from Russell G. Colt, son of Colonel Sam P. Colt, wealthy rubber man, after hearing the story of her life with Colt as told by depositions taken in New York. Failure to provide and cruelty were charged against the husband. The decree gives Colt the right to see their three children occasionally.

MILITARISTS SEEK TO USE RHINELAND AS BUFFER STATE

French Military Leaders Favor Keeping Dependable Military—Rhine-land Citizens Tolerant.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Cologne, July 5.—Whatever the French government might conclude as an incident of negotiation with Great Britain, most French military leaders will not willingly see any abandonment of their theory of the Rhineland as a buffer state. Every well-informed person will be surprised if the French government abandons this idea except in change for some equally dependable military guaranty.

If the French government should give it up the military men will of course bow to that judgment. But they will be sure to counsel their government to stick to the Rhineland as a buffer state and in their hearts will not cease to think that that is the best assurance of France's safety.

They wanted it at the time of the peace conference and were induced to give it up by America and by Britain's unfulfilled promise to guarantee France against German aggression. They want it now because their military judgment dictates it.

Tolerant of Buffer State.

At most times the idea of an independent Rhineland does not greatly shock the Germans who live in that territory. Local business men are tolerant of it. The exploitation idea goes

PROHIBITION NOT FAILURE IN STATE SAYS DRY CHIEF

State Federal Agent Denies Statement Made by Representative Craig Arnold in House.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN STATE, HE SAYS

Mentions Home County of Mr. Arnold, However, as One Wet Spot Where Co-operation Is Lacking.

"Prohibition in Georgia has not been a failure and we desire to continue in co-operation with county officials," Fred A. Dismuke, state federal prohibition director, last night declared in reply to a statement of Representative Craig Arnold, Lumpkin, author of the bill, now before the general assembly, designed to place enforcement of the Volstead act in this state entirely upon the federal government.

The legislator, whose measure would repeal Georgia's prohibition law, stated that enforcement of the dry act in the state has been unsuccessful, adding that in his opinion federal and county officials were not working together.

"A majority of county officials are working with us," said Mr. Dismuke. "In some wet counties we are not receiving co-operation of sheriffs and in these we are working alone. The enforcement of the law has shown a decided improvement during the past several years."

Lumpkin county, the home of the repeal bill's author, was named by the director as one of the "wet" sections of the state in which county officials have refused to co-operate with federal agents in enforcing the Volstead act. Dawson and other counties in that immediate territory also were specified with Lumpkin.

The United States government, said Mr. Dismuke, is opposed to any move to remove assistance of state and county officers in enforcing prohibition. The director has not been invited to appear before the house temperance committee, which will consider the repeal measure, but stated that if he were invited to express his position before that body he would accept.

A "conflict in enforcement" has resulted from the presence of state and federal prohibition laws. Representative Arnold asserted, adding that he sincerely believed repeal of the Georgia statute would result in stronger enforcement here, with the government in complete authority. "Prohibition," he continued, "is a farce and everybody knows it."

Why the Weather?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS, Secretary American Meteorological Society, Describes:

How to Take the Temperature of the Air.

At our house we may insist it is 91 degrees F., while the neighbor boasts that his thermometer reached 100. We may have standard thermometers, such a discrepancy can easily be accounted for by difference in exposure of the two thermometers. What we wish to find is the temperature of the air.

The air in general is warmed a little by direct sunlight, but mainly by the earth's surface, which in turn is heated by the sun. Some parts of the surface absorb heat readily and become much hotter than others. For instance, on June 18, 1918, a dirt parade in Texas reached a temperature of 141 degrees while the temperature of adjoining grass was 112 and the air temperature 101. Similarly, a screen of foliage will become nearly as hot as a brick wall or a tar roof. In fact, the relative coolness of the foliage is largely the result of cooling by the evaporation of transpired water.

There is a way of observing air temperature accurately, even in full sunshine, and that is by swinging, whirling or fanning the thermometer vigorously, and by this means bringing so many molecules of atmospheric gases into contact with the bulb that the effect of direct heating by surroundings is reduced to a minimum. Even by such a method an open space should be chosen to avoid obtaining temperatures of warm pockets of air. (Tomorrow: Why July is hottest.) (All rights reserved.)

MONEY DECLARED NEEDED TO GIVE PROPER SERVICE

Finance Committee Acts Favorably Upon Plan and Will Present It to Council at Next Meeting.

PLAN TO SAVE CITY $100,000 EACH YEAR

Measure Provides $1,100,000 for Impounding Dam and Hydro-Electric Plant and $400,000 for Extensions.

A new bond issue of $1,500,000 for a waterworks hydro-electric pumping plant on the Chattahoochee and for extension of city water mains was recommended to council by the finance committee at its special session Thursday afternoon. The new plan, according to W. Zode Smith, manager of the waterworks department, will double the water supply of the city and effect an actual saving of $100,000 per year in the department's expenses.

At the same meeting, the committee authorized Mr. Smith to employ five special men for six days to prepare and deliver water bills. Mr. Smith and Alderman Bachman, chairman of the water committee, told the finance committee that the reduction in the department's working forces under the new finance sheet would make it impossible to present promptly 10,000 June water bills for payment by consumers. The special provision of extra men was made to meet the emergency pending reorganization of the department under the new budget.

Council Will Act.

The new $1,500,000 bond issue will be considered by council at its regular session July 16 with the probability that it will be approved and the issue be put up to a vote of the people at the democratic primary September 5. It provides $1,100,000 for an impounding dam and hydro-electric plant and $400,000 for main extensions.

At present the actual rated pumping capacity of the city waterworks is 25,000,000 per day, although 20,500,000 gallons are being pumped. An auxiliary steam plant would pump 14,000,000 per day additional in an emergency. The present water mains, however, will carry only 32,000,000 gallons per day. The mains now under construction will increase the carrying capacity to 72,000,000 gallons per day. The new pumping station, should the bonds be voted, will increase the capacity of the pumping station to 80,000,000 gallons per day. The present consumption of water is less than 20,000,000 gallons per day, but the growth of Atlanta is increasing the demands on the water works at a rapid rate, according to Mr. Smith, and puts the city in a precarious condition during every long dry spell of the summer when water consumption increases.

Capacity Overtaxed.

The record consumption of last summer was 32,000,000 gallons in one day, which overtook the pumping station and made inroads on the 400,000,000 reserve supply. Only 200,000,000 gallons of the reserve supply, however, is available for ordinary uses, such as drinking, bathing and the like, because when that amount has been drawn out of the reservoir, the water level sinks below the point where the filtration system can be used on it. In a fire emergency or for street cleaning and similar uses, the other 200,000,000 could be of service.

The proposed pumping station, used in conjunction with the big mains which are now being installed, would enable the waterworks to supply with certainty the city's heaviest demands from day to day, and would meet all probable increases for at least eleven years, or long enough for the new plant to pay for itself at the rate of $100,000 estimated savings per year. These savings include the present bill of $85,000 per year for coal at the Chattahoochee pumping station steam plant and $15,000 for labor and other incidental costs which would be eliminated by substitution of hydro-electric for steam power.

No Legal Obstacles.

The city charter, according to Mr. Smith, authorizes the use of the Chattahoochee river water power for waterworks purposes and no legal obstacles are foreseen in the way of building the plant.

The plans for the new development are being drawn up under supervision of Paul H. Norcross and have not been completed. They will provide, however, for a huge dam across the Chattahoochee river at a point about two miles above the site of the present pumping station. An enormous intake water main will be extended into the river behind the dam and water will be carried, by force of gravity, from the river at this point to well and power station, which will remain on its present site.

Turbines on the other side of the dam will utilize the rest of the river's flow to generate electric power which will be transmitted through electric cables to the dynamo and other electric power equipment which will be installed at the pumping station to supplement the present steam engines.

These pumps will force the water through the mains, which will ultimately have 72,000,000 gallons per day capacity, up to four miles to the city reservoirs where it is filtered and forced on through the hundreds of miles of water mains and water pipes that form a network under the streets of Atlanta. The hydroelectric power generated at the new dam would be sufficient to supply all power needs of the city waterworks.

Would Close Intake Main.

The present intake main, which is located at a point some distance below the site of the proposed dam, would be closed and left in place for emergency use. It has a capacity of about 40,000,000 gallons of water per day. The proposed new intake would have a capacity of 80,000,000 gallons per day. The steam engines in use at present would also be kept for emergency use, according to the tentative plans of the waterworks committee.

At its same meeting, the finance committee advised the proposal of Councilman J. A. E. E. of the water committee, that the city of Atlanta take out $2,500 of life insurance for each fireman and policeman. The committee decided that the present provisions are ample protection for members of the two departments.

A special committee, including Chairman I. N. Ragsdale, of the finance committee, E. Graham West, city controller, and W. Zode Smith was authorized to investigate the necessity of amending the June finance sheet to add an additional bookkeeper to the waterworks office force.

DUNWOODY OFFERS ENJOYABLE FOURTH OF JULY PROGRAM

The little village of Dunwoody, located 17 miles east of the city of Atlanta, measured up to all expectations in entertaining thousands of visitors on the Fourth of July.

Meeting at 10 o'clock, the fraternal order of the vicinity paraded the streets and then returned to the huge arbor erected for the celebration of the day.

The speakers of the day were R. E. Carroll, superintendent of DeKalb county schools; Mrs. H. B. Chamberlain, president of the Women's League of Voters; Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and L. T. Y. Nash, commissioner of roads and revenues for DeKalb county.

W. L. Monroe introduced A. L. Norris, a leading citizen of Dunwoody, who made appropriate remarks with reference to the occasion, and announced that C. M. Boyer, a member of the Atlanta Kiwanis club, would be the toastmaster.

The Atlanta Epworth league union band and a group of young people from the Central Presbyterian church furnished enjoyable music and Mrs. W. J. Zahner, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson entertained the audience with a delightful duet.

Dr. Benjamin O. Holtzendorf was in charge of the several prize-winning contests.

The barbecue, which was donated by E. R. DuBoise and J. A. E. Cox, was thoroughly enjoyed. A. L. Norris provided candies for the children. After the barbecue, the Rev. H. C. Smith, assistant pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, with his young people, gave a pleasing minstrel show.

The athletic events consisted of the old-fashioned fat man's race, the chasing of a greasy pig, the climbing of a greasy pole and a wrestling match.

ELDER OF CHURCH SEVERELY BEATEN BY UNKNOWN MAN

Lawton, Okla., July 5.—H. C. Lewis, an elder in the church of which the Rev. Thomas J. Irwin was formerly pastor here, was found unconscious in the minister's van early today. He had a number of wounds on the head.

When revived, he declared he had been assaulted by a strange man who appeared at Rev. Irwin's home where Lewis was awaiting the minister and demanded all the copies in the house of a pamphlet entitled "The New Twelve." The pamphlet was written by Rev. Irwin and constituted an attack on methods used to obtain his removal from the pastorate because he had performed a wedding ceremony in a bathing pool with the participants in bathing suits.

Rev. Irwin returned home from a neighborhood town where he had delivered an Independence day address and found Lewis soon after the attack.

Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Dies in Chicago Home After Brief Illness

Chicago, July 5.—Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, mother of Cyrus H. Jr., and Harold McCormick, died at her home today in Lake Forest, near Chicago. Mrs. McCormick had been ill for a week with acute bronchitis. She was 88 years old.

Mrs. McCormick was the widow of Cyrus H. McCormick, Sr., founder of the International Harvester company, who died in 1884.

Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, or Madame McCormick, as she was generally known, had spent some time in Pasadena since the marriage of her son, Harold P. McCormick, to Ganna Walska, opera singer.

She was known around the world for her philanthropy. She had given millions to the Presbyterian church, and the cause of missions and medicine in this and other far away lands.

The great purpose that animated her life for many years has been the spread of Christianity and western medicine. She had given much more than $1,000,000 to the McCormick Theological seminary alone, but the extent of her vast contributions to church and medical work never became generally known, for she seldom would talk of her benefactions.

Man Has Miraculous Escape From Death When Hit by Scantling

Struck on the head by a scantling which fell four floors and sustaining only a superficial injury was the experience of G. V. Stancil, 18 Handin street, Thursday.

Stancil is a carpenter engaged in construction of an apartment house at Peachtree and Twelfth streets, and a heavy scantling accidentally dislodged fell from the fourth floor, rendering him unconscious. When he revived in the Great ambulance he found that, with the exception of a bruise on his head, he was uninjured.

Stancil considers that his escape from death bordered on the miraculous.

POSSE ABANDONS SEARCH FOR NEGRO

Wellston, Ga., July 5.—The hunt for a negro who late yesterday attacked a widow in her home here, was abandoned tonight.

Dogs followed the trail to a stream. Evidently the negro waded the stream for some distance, for the dogs were unable to pick up the scent again.

The victim of the assault was unable to give the officers a description of the negro.

Mr. Hutchins, who was an engineer of the Seaboard railroad for 16 years, was journeying to Jacksonville to visit his son when the accident occurred. He will be buried in Hayston, Ga.

EAGER TO SECURE SCARRITT SCHOOL

To secure a definite public expression of Atlanta's desire to have the Scarritt Training school moved here from Kansas City, Mo., a special committee of the local Methodist pastors has called a meeting of leading citizens of all denominations to be held at the chamber of commerce building today at 5:15.

Nashville, Tenn.; Birmingham, Ala.; Dallas, Texas, and Atlanta are striving to have the training school for missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, located in their respective cities. The executive committee of the board of missionaries meets July 10 and much rests upon its recommendation as to the future site of the school. The eagerness of Atlanta to sponsor the school will be placed on record at the meeting here today and will be forwarded to the executive committee of the missionary board.

One of the most important factors that will tend to influence the final decision Atlantawards is that Emory university has offered a campus of between 10 and 20 acres for erection of the training school building and that chairs already established in the local university could be used by Scarritt school students.

The Scarritt school brings with it endowments of close to $2,500,000, and will bring 500 outside students to the city.

This is one of the most important projects to be handled by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in years, states Bishop W. R. McMurtry, of Birmingham, Ala., and in his opinion should be dealt with by the general assembly.

CANADIAN NURSE WOULD SEE WORLD AND THEN SUICIDE

London, July 5.—Winifred Neal had $8,000. That was a year ago. She set out to see the world and get rid of her money. After that she intended getting rid of herself.

Winifred Neal is a Canadian nurse, 39 years old, and still pretty. Crossing on a channel boat from France to England the other night, she plunged into the churning waters of the channel. She had completed her world tour and was ready to carry out her year-old vow—See the world and end it all.

These details of a strange death pledge came out at Folkestone when Miss Neal was arraigned on a charge of attempting to commit suicide. She had been rescued from the channel in a state of complete collapse and taken to a hospital where she recovered.

A chief constable testified: "Miss Neal told me she started from Canada last July with $8,000. It was her express intention, she said, to see the world and then do away with herself. She said she had visited Japan, China and India, and then gone on to Europe and toured the continent. She said she had only $5 left."

Miss Neal was remanded for medical observation.

Mrs. H. R. Moody, Beloved Atlantan, Called by Death

Mrs. Helen Ralls Moody, well known Atlanta woman, died here Thursday following several years' ill health. Mrs. Moody was born in 1849, and was the daughter of the late Dr. John Perkins, at one time congressman from Alabama. Agnes Mary Hamilton, of the well-known Hamilton family, of Rome, Ga., in 1867 she was married to William Robert Moody, a Confederate soldier, and came to live in Atlanta in 1891. Mrs. Moody is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frank Smyth, Mrs. John T. Tucker and Mrs. Estelle Moody Hagen.

Swine Breeders to Meet.

Cedartown, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—The state meeting of the Georgia Swine Breeders' association will meet here August 30 and 31. This was due to an invitation from the Polk county farm bureau and the chamber of commerce.

CHURCH WOULD FIGHT SOCIAL INJUSTICE

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 5.—"The church has a more useful and important field in seeking to amend the constitution, so that social injustice may be combated by legal means, than to occupy its time with profitless controversies over dogmas and creeds or in fighting science or trying to find who our ancestors are," E. Marvin Underwood, Atlanta, told the social conference in the Methodist Episcopal church, south, here.

Mr. Underwood, who was counsel for the United States railroad administration and an assistant attorney general under the Wilson administration, added that as a religious question he was not so much concerned whether he descended from an ape, as whether he should develop such characteristics that might cause a reversion to that species.

Efforts to improve criminal law, to promote equality of justice, protect childhood and motherhood, promote health and education, were some of the things the speaker urged upon the church. He denounced landlord profiteers, long hours of labor and excessive capital returns, bogus stock promoters and others.

Court of Inquiry To Investigate Death of Texan

Austin, Texas, July 5.—A court of inquiry into the killing of Otto Lange, railroad employee, Monday night near Somerville, Burleson county, Texas, will be conducted by state investigators, Acting Governor T. W. Davidson announced today.

Lange was reported to have been assaulted and killed by masked men. A general report of the affair was given by Sheriff Fred Lewis, of Burleson county this morning, to Lieutenant Governor Davidson, who is acting governor while Governor Neff is out of the state.

LIQUOR SALESMAN EXONERATED OF BRIBERY CHARGE

New York, July 5.—Samuel Albrecht, a liquor salesman, was acquitted by a federal jury today of a charge of bribing a prohibition enforcement agent to permit him to extract official papers from the state prohibition director's office.

Albrecht charged on the witness stand that Green Miller, the chief witness against him, who came to the New York prohibition enforcement force from Tennessee, had held him up at the point of a pistol and extracted the alleged bribe money from his pocket. He had merely gone to the prohibition office, he said, to seek permission to check up on some records of a whisky shipment.

Miller admitted on cross-examination that he had drawn a pistol on Albrecht, but declared this was when he was arresting Albrecht after the

Police Believe Postmaster Slain And Body Burned

Beaufort, S. C., July 5.—The theory that W. D. Brown, postmaster at Hilton Head, and his wife, were killed by robbers and their store and home burned to hide the crime, today was advanced by officers working on the case. The couple operated a general store, which did a large business, and are believed to have had a considerable sum of money in the place. The remains of a body believed to be that of Mrs. Brown, today were found in the smoldering ruins of the building which was burned Tuesday night. No trace of Mr. Brown's body has been found.

Near the fragments of the body found today, was a roll of money, nearly burned.

1,000 GIFT MADE BY GEORGE KING

That the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial will give Atlanta "the most wonderful sight in all the world to show to visitors," and will attract "tens of thousands of visitors to the city," was the opinion expressed by George E. King, president of King Hardware company, in a letter yesterday to the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association, enclosing his "founders' roll" subscription of $1,000 in memory of his brother, Horatio L. King.

Mr. King's subscription with subscriptions of $1,000 each by the three Atlanta daily newspapers, announced Thursday brings Atlanta's total subscription above $75,000 to date, and the early completion of Atlanta's requested quota of $250,000 is assured, in the opinion of the association's executive committee.

This amount asked of Atlanta will complete the central group of figures to be carved on Stone Mountain, and the committee has been assured the amount necessary to complete the whole plan when the Atlanta quota is announced over the top. Work on the face of Stone Mountain is making rapid progress and Gutson Borgum, the sculptor, expects to have the figure of Robert E. Lee practically completed by the end of the summer.

Mr. King's letter accompanying his subscription was as follows: "Dear Mr. Randolph: You may enter my subscription for the Stone Mountain Memorial association for $1,000, payable $200 annually for five years. The memorial is in honor of my brother, Horatio L. King, who entered the Confederate army at the age of 15, and who fought through the last day without a furlough, and without a wound. It seems to me that you have not yet made it plain to the people of Atlanta what a wonderful material asset the work that you are planning to do would be to this city. Atlanta's greatness is largely due to its altitude and climate, but when stranger comes here, it is pretty hard to find anything of interest to show him. If the wonderful plans which are being formed are carried out, we will have the most wonderful sight in all the world to show to visitors, and it will cause tens of thousands of people to stop at our hotels and incidentally buy a few things out of our stores. It will bring many people to Atlanta who might never come; it will undoubtedly put the Atlanta spell over some of these visitors who will certainly come to see us again, and some of them will come to spend their time and money with us, by taking up Atlanta as their future home. Wishing you every success in this splendid enterprise, I am, Yours very truly, GEORGE E. KING."

COMMITTEE VOTES TO PUT GARBAGE CANS ON CORNERS

Two hundred Atlanta street corners may be embellished within the next three months by that number of large garbage cans painted with advertising.

The sanitary committee of city council Thursday afternoon voted to accept a proposition from the "American Spotless Street System" to permit the system to place the cans on street corners in consideration of the privilege of selling advertising space on their sides.

Approval of city council and of Mayor Walter A. Sims is necessary before the scheme can go through.

Mrs. W. R. Hadaway, Young Local Matron, Is Called by Death

Mrs. Lillie Mae Hadaway, 26, of 329 Greenwood avenue, died at her home Thursday morning. The deceased woman was well known locally, having lived in Atlanta practically all her life. She was an active member of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church and was leader of the woman's auxiliary of that church.

The pastor, Dr. Charles A. Campbell, will conduct the funeral services, which will be held this morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral will be in Hollywood cemetery, the Hunter-Blanchard-Gartrell company having charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Hadaway is survived by her husband, W. R. Hadaway, who is connected with the Atlanta factory branch of the Ford Motor company; an infant son; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stradley; one brother, W. C. Stradley, and five sisters, Mrs. T. L. Roper, Mrs. W. R. Simmons, Mrs. J. P. Glazier and Misses Lucy and Nell Stradley.

Late John H. Rogers Served Railroad Thirty-Five Years

John H. Rogers, 66, for 35 years telegrapher with the railroad of Georgia, died Thursday morning in a local hospital. He had been in ill health for some time past but his condition was not serious until he was stricken at work four days ago. The deceased, who lived on Lakewood drive, was one of the oldest and best-known telegraphers in the south, having joined the telegraph department of the road in 1889.

Mr. Rogers was a member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, Georgia division No. 46.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. S. E. Walker, of Dallas, Texas, and Mrs. Lee Elder Saye, of Decatur; two brothers, L. J. Rogers, of Atlanta, who is connected with the road, and W. W. Rogers, of Columbia, S. C.; a nephew Thomas G. Elder and two nieces Mrs. J. R. Williams and Mrs. A. V. Hopkins.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

ALLEN LEAGUE HOLDS ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The annual conference of the Allen Christian Endeavor league began in Turner Memorial church yesterday, Dr. J. H. McFarlin, president, in the chair. Devotion was conducted by Dr. Townsend and Harrison.

Bishop J. S. Flipper delivered an able address to the convention urging the pastors to be regular in their attendance at league meetings in order to encourage the young people.

Dr. J. T. Johnson preached the annual sermon. W. A. Quillen made an interesting address to the Allen Life Guards.

MOTORIZED BALLOON COMPLETES JOURNEY

Elmira, N. Y., July 5.—Manned by two aviators in federal service, a motorized balloon, of a new type, dropped upon the field of the aircraft corporation at Hammondsport this afternoon, completing a journey from McVick field, Dayton, Ohio. The balloon is said to have made a record flight for this type of airship. It is to be used by the United States department of agriculture in an effort to fight the ravages of the gypsy moth.

Plans to Slash Pension Roll Are Abandoned

Plans for pruning the city pension roll in the interests of economy were brought to an end Thursday afternoon when Mayor Walter A. Sims affixed his signature to the new pension roll, submitted by the J. F. Kennedy, city health officer, and accepted by council Monday, which reinstates every one of the pensioners on the old list.

Mayor Sims instituted the movement for pruning the pension roll with the idea that some of the pensioners had recovered from the disabilities which entitled them to draw money from the city. At his request, council suspended the old pension list, thus forcing all pensioners to appear for new physical examinations by Dr. Kennedy, in order to secure places on the new roll.

"I still believe that a number of the pensioners are not entitled to draw their money, but all of them have complied with the law and there is nothing left for me to do but approve the list and put them back on the city pay roll," the mayor said.

WOUNDED SHERIFF DIES IN HOSPITAL

Johnson City, Tenn., July 5.—Deputy Sheriff Will Campbell, who was wounded in a pistol duel here last night, according to police, by George Logan, a freight conductor, died this morning in a local hospital.

The quarrel started between the two when Campbell is alleged to have accused Logan of having whisky in his automobile. Logan, wounded by two bullets, is in a critical condition, with slight hope for his recovery.

DR. COPELAND ASKED TO ADDRESS ASSEMBLY

A resolution inviting Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States senator from New York, and prominent health expert, to address a joint meeting of the Georgia legislature at an early date, was adopted by the senate Thursday morning. The exact date of the speaker's appearance will be announced later.

Only a brief session was held by the senate Thursday following Independence day adjournment, the governor's message on taxation being read, after which several bills were introduced. The senate concurred in a house resolution providing for a joint session to be held in the next two weeks in honor of the late United States Senator Thomas E. Watson.

Fire Chief W. B. Ody, accompanied by a number of firemen, visited the senate chamber after adjournment, and stated that he was working in opposition to a proposed charter amendment which would regulate pensions in the city of Atlanta so as to prevent firemen injured in the line of duty from receiving municipal aid.

Other bills submitted in the senate included one by Senator Pace, of the 13th district, making it a misdemeanor for a person to draw checks, drafts, or orders for payment of money on banks in which he has no funds.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING HELD LIFE OF NATION

Des Moines, Ia., July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The life of the nation depends upon the religious training given the youth of the country and churches are obligated to promote this instruction along with the general education provided by the state, Hugh S. McGill, of Chicago, today told delegates to the international Christian Endeavor convention in session here. Mr. McGill is general secretary of the international council of religious education.

The council of religious education and the Protestant churches, he said, were planning to establish a system of education that would meet this need and which would in no way interfere with educational programs of other denominations.

In his second address on prohibition, Wayne B. Wheeler, Anti-Saloon league leader, said Governor Smith's recent prohibition law action had strengthened the cause.

"When Governor Smith signed the bill that served notice on the nation that New York would not support the prohibition law, he hurled a challenge to every law-abiding citizen of the nation," said Mr. Wheeler. "But the governor failed to weaken the prohibition forces of the country. On the other hand, he crystallized 'dry sentiment' and we are infinitely stronger than before."

"I believe President Harding would send troops into New York if open rebellion broke out, but we don't want to win the fight that way. We can lick the 'wet' forces to a standstill, not by force, but by creating sentiment against booze."

G. W. GLOVER SUICIDES Prominent Stillmore Man Despondent Over Business.

Stillmore, Ga., July 5.—G. W. Glover, merchant of Stillmore, Ga., shot himself to death today while Deputy Sheriff W. W. Curi was seated on his door step, according to a report of the officer tonight.

Glover was under bond following service of seventeen warrants charging a shortage of $4,300 in connection with a sugar transaction and other alleged irregular deals, according to the sheriff.

The deputy sheriff was trying to levy on a lighting plant, when Glover accused himself for a minute. The deputy said that an instant later the shot was fired, and rushing in he found Glover with a bullet through his brain. Glover died shortly afterwards.

It is reported that he had given a number of checks to a local depot agent for bills of lading and their non-payment resulted in his arrest yesterday by Sheriff Otis Coleman. Bond was arranged, but his sureties withdrew today.

'GLORIOUS FOURTH' TAKES HEAVY TOLL

Chicago, July 5.—A score of deaths and more than a hundred injuries resulted from fireworks explosions and other accidents incidental to the nation's observance of Independence day. Although efforts to prevent the usual casualties were virtually universal, fatalities occurred in all the principal cities of the country.

Most of those killed were children. Pittsburgh led in the number of deaths, ten resulting from pre-holiday celebration causing four deaths of children. Antonio Beltrami was shot and killed there by his wife, who claimed it was an accident.

St. Louis, with 41 reported injured, had a greater number than any other city, although Chicago, with 3 dead and 28 injured, was a close second.

Fatalities and injuries by states, compiled from available reports, are as follows:

State	Dead	Injured
New York	5	28
Pennsylvania	5	12
Illinois	5	12
Minnesota	1	..
Ohio	1	..
Alabama	1	..
Louisiana	3	11
Iowa	..	2

New Jersey	..	3
Missouri	..	61

Exploding fireworks caused injuries resulting in the death of Joseph Javarone, Groversville, N. Y. A flying piece of steel from an exploding barrel instantly killed Mike Aurilio of St. Cloud, Minn., and Orville Cramer, Danville, Ill., was instantly killed when a gas pipe loaded with powder exploded in his hands.

Charles Conners, Huntington, W. Va., was instantly killed at an Elks' lodge observance at Jackson, Ohio, when a giant firecracker exploded prematurely, tearing off his left arm. A 2-year-old child at Jacksonville, Ill., died as a result of swallowing chemicals contained in fireworks.

In New York Peter Vacarelli was shot and killed when a pistol in the hands of his chum exploded accidentally. Francis Gordon succumbed to heart failure when a firecracker was exploded under his feet.

Three persons were killed in Chicago in holiday observances, one man was shot by an officer who mistook him for a criminal, another was shot during an altercation at a picnic and a third was drowned. Drownings were reported at New Orleans and Annapolis, Md.

Frank Bergeron, New Orleans, died as a result of a broken neck received in an automobile accident.

Joseph Korepa, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, blacksmith, was probably fatally injured when he peered into the muzzle of a toy cannon to ascertain why a charge of powder and paper would not explode. Three boys in Westville, N. J., were badly burned in an explosion of a package of powder to which they touched a match. A similar accident occurred to three boys at Beloit, Wis.

Nine of Chicago's 20 persons who received hospital attention were injured by stray bullets or buckshot. Four persons riding in automobiles sustained slight injuries from stray shots and one man riding on a suburban train was wounded in the arm. A revolver cartridge placed on a car track exploded when the wheels struck it and the bullet wounded a woman standing on the front porch of her home.

Liner Leviathan Claimed Addition To Failure List

New York, July 5.—The steamship Leviathan, reconducted by the government at a cost of more than $8,000,000 and now on the high seas on her first trip under the American flag in the transatlantic passenger service, "never made a penny money and never will," Rear Admiral Charles H. Plunkett, commandant at the Brooklyn navy yard, declared in an address today before the Brooklyn Rotary club.

The great liner, like the British Mauretania and Berengaria, is too large and expensive for practical operation, he said.

Rear Admiral Plunkett also denounced international conferences as a means of securing world peace, asserting that they were "purely a waste of time."

"They have simply resulted in engendering bad feeling among many of the nations of the world," he added. "What we want is peace on earth, but the outlook is not good."

Peace can be maintained only by force, he continued, adding that treaties generally are ignored after twenty-five years. The American navy, he said, was in good condition to keep the peace, and the "presence of the hour" was the development of a merchant marine. It was in this connection that he pronounced the Leviathan a white elephant.

The steamers Akamennon and Mt. Vernon, he said, should be reconducted at once, and he was seeking to obtain this work for the Brooklyn yard.

Bill To appropriate $50,000 To Combat Malaria Introduced

A bill authorizing appropriation of $25,000 in 1924 and the same amount in 1925 to be used by the state board of health in the control of malaria and other mosquito-borne diseases was introduced into the legislature Thursday by Representative Hines, of Sumter county.

It has been estimated by the U. S. public health service that the same amount in 1925 to be used by the state board of health in the control of malaria alone was over $1,500,000. There is a pressing need, declares the government health report, for measures to plan malaria under control and the number of deaths particularly in the southwestern section of Georgia is assuming disturbing proportions.

Report Is Filed To Clear State Of Blame For Riot

Springfield, Ill., July 5.—Exonerated of the military department of the state of blame in connection with the Herrin mine riot of a year ago last June is contained in a minority report of the house investigating committee filed today by Representative Pierce of Belvidere and Curran of Chicago, two republican members.

The report holds that Adjutant General Blair and Colonel Hunter, his personal emissary at Herrin prior to and during the riot, were not to be blamed "because they could not anticipate the action of the mob."

"The same results might occur in any community in the state of Illinois," the report stated. "The committee finds that Adjutant General Blair and Colonel Hunter acted upon information at hand and were unable to anticipate the action of the mob."

"The evidence heard by the committee is of such controversial nature that we are unable to definitely fix responsibility because of the mob spirit prevalent at the time."

Officials at the field announced that the flight was official, being held under regulations of the National aeronautical association.

Mrs. Horch was in the air 2 hours and 8 minutes. When she descended she had to be lifted from the cockpit of her plane, her hands feet being frost bitten, despite her winter clothes. She was placed under the care of a physician.

Major William B. Robertson, commander of the Missouri National guard air service, accompanied Mrs. Horch.

BUILDINGS DONATED BY UNNAMED PARTIES

A gift of buildings and equipment to be used as a unit of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, at Pinnacle Mountain, White county, has been made by two donors, whose names are at present being withheld, it was announced Thursday by Mrs. J. W. Hays, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Hays states that on the fourth birthday of the Tallulah Falls school the trustees executive committee meeting with the trustee building committee, accepted the offer of two friends of education to erect the first new building of the school farm unit, ten miles from Cleveland.

The two donors had previously given 100 acres of land for the school site. It lies on the border of a large artificial lake soon to be constructed by the owners of the 1,000-acre tract next to the school property. Electric lights and power will be supplied to both new institutions and the present school.

One building, now standing on the federation's gift tract, is being put in condition to serve as a school. The new building, it is stated, will be a home cottage and will be used similarly to the Mary Ann Lipscomb cottage at the Tallulah Falls Industrial school. The new cottage will be similar in type and design to the Lipscomb cottage, which combines native timbers and rough stone.

"Miss Mamie C. Davis, principal of the federation's school, it is announced, will be the principal of the Pinnacle Mountain unit, which will have as superintendent a man of scientific knowledge of farming, combined with practical experience. The Pinnacle Mountain unit will open its doors early in September. P. T. Stanley, of Athens, will be business representative of the donors during the construction of the new building on the property."

Juror's Illness Holds Up Trial of 'Whipping Boss'

Lake City, Fla., July 5.—A sick juror caused the trial of Thomas Walter Higginbotham, former convict whipping boss on trial here for the alleged murder of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota, to lag here today. During the short session held, the defense rested its case and the state began to introduce rebuttal testimony, which it is expected will be concluded early tomorrow.

L. M. Chambers, a member of the jury, is threatened with appendicitis, doctors say. He was able to enter the box for a short while during the morning session. Because of his illness, the afternoon session was two hours late in getting under way. Adjournment was taken at 4:30 o'clock at the request of the juror's physician. Impending testimony by the state featured the short sessions today. J. E. Johnson, former commissary keeper for the Putnam Lumber company, testified that he was told by Dr. T. Caper Jones, the lumber camp physician, that "Higginbotham beat Tabert to death." The indictment against Higginbotham charges that he whipped Tabert so severely while the latter was serving a prison sentence at the lumber camp that death resulted.

Mr. Johnson is Dr. Jones' brother-in-law and it was brought out on cross-examination that he was discharged by the lumber company because of the witness said of a "financial misunderstanding."

The defense inferred in questioning the witness that the company had accused him of theft. Mr. Johnson admitted such an accusation had been made against him, but that he made an effort to clear his name, which the lumber company refused.

Earl Callahan, a former employee of the Putnam Lumber company, declared Jesse Waters, a defense witness, in his presence told Charlie Bryant, another former employee, he counted ninety licks while Higginbotham was whipping Tabert and that he turned away to keep from seeing more.

Callahan told defense counsel, on being cross-examined, that he had left the company of his own accord. Bryant corroborated Callahan's testimony and added that he too had left the company of his own accord.

Judge Who Sentenced Man to Life Term Pleads for Pardon

Clemency for Cason M. Patrick was asked of the Georgia prison commission Thursday by former Judge Henry C. Hammond, of Augusta, who presided at the trial of Patrick and sentenced the former to a life term for murder when the case was called in Richmond superior court in 1921.

Judge Hammond, appearing as a practicing attorney, stated at the outset of the hearing that he was not exactly certain whether it was proper for him to appear in the case, since he passed sentence upon Patrick, but was informed by the commissioners that it was not irregular or improper.

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the state supreme court, told the commission following the argument of Mr. Hammond that he had known the Patrick family for many years and that in his opinion the convicted man was of good character. The defendant was guilty of manslaughter and should be released, was Judge Russell's declaration.

Patrick was convicted of murder in connection with the death of Shaw Murrell, also of Richmond county, in 1921. Murrell's throat was slashed with a razor, according to evidence brought out at the trial.

WOMAN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO; DRIVER NOT HELD

Mrs. P. Russ, 43, of 308 Pulliam street, was carried to her home Thursday afternoon from injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Charles J. Moon, of the Capital City Tire & Supply company, at Edgewood avenue and Ivy street.

Mr. Moon stopped his machine immediately and assisted Mrs. Russ to her husband's store at 304 S. Edgewood avenue, where medical aid was given. Mrs. Russ declined to go to the Grady hospital, it is said, and was carried home where she was placed under the care of the family physician.

After helping Mrs. Russ home, Moon notified the accident to Captain A. J. Holcombe at police station. No case had been made late Thursday night, as the accident was regarded as unavoidable.

Charles J. Moon, of Asheville, N. C., racer, who was severely injured at Lakewood park Wednesday afternoon, was reported Thursday as improving in the Grady hospital and surgeons hoped for an early recovery. He sustained a broken right hip, besides severe bruises about the right leg, left arm and head.

WARMER WEATHER EXPECTED TODAY SAYS FORECASTER

"Yes, we have no cool weather today," C. F. von Herrmann, local weather forecaster, declared Thursday as great beads of perspiration rolled down his face.

Mr. von Herrmann announced that Friday would be fair and much hotter. The mercury will rise to 96 degrees he predicted. This temperature will probably last throughout the week, and, possibly Sunday.

"This is certainly warm weather," Mr. von Herrmann declared.

"We enjoyed a moderate Fourth. We will not enjoy a moderate 'sixth, seventh and eighth though."

THREE-POWER PACT MEETS OPPOSITION

Washington, July 5.—Japan's suggestion for a three-power armament agreement with Great Britain and the United States, as a substitute for the five-power treaty signed at the Washington conference and still awaiting ratification by France, has met with small favor in high naval circles here. Not only would such a pact defeat its own purpose, according to the opinion of some naval experts, but in order to be of even moral value it would have to involve at least a tacit offensive and defensive alliance between the three signatories, viewed as improbable of congressional approval.

Elimination of France from the subscribing powers, it is pointed out, might be accepted as giving that country an unanswerable argument for embarking upon a comprehensive naval construction program.

In view of this situation, the American naval authorities, who helped frame the five-power Washington treaty are expected to advise against any reduction of the agreement to a three-power basis. It is emphasized, however, that the decision does not rest with the navy, but with the state department.

Watchman Found, Throat Slashed, In Court Offices

New York, July 5.—Vincent Calvecca, a watchman in the children's court building, today was found dead, slashed with a bread knife, in an upper room of the building. Police declared a woman's footprints were found in the blood stains on the floor. The body was found in the detention room on a rug whence a trail of blood extended to the office of a woman physician, attached to the court. In the office on a couch were various articles of male apparel, including, police said, that Calvecca had been asleep when attacked.

Mrs. Louise Arnold, mother of five children, was taken from a cigar factory where she was employed, this afternoon, for questioning in connection with Calvecca's murder. She was not placed under formal arrest. Her 16-year old son was also detained as a witness.

Mrs. Arnold's detention was decided upon when a probation officer told him of threats made by the woman.

Also a large representation from South Dakota in honor of G. McFarland, the only candidate in the field for the chair of the grand exalted ruler. It is expected that Mr. McFarland will be elected at the opening session of the convention on Tuesday.

One hundred and thirty-five men and a 30-piece band will accompany the South Dakota delegation.

The procession will be divided into divisions, which have not been announced as yet. WEST POINT WANTS STATE PRESS MEET

West Point, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—At its weekly luncheon today the West Point Rotary club unanimously endorsed a resolution to extend an invitation to the Georgia Press association to meet here in 1924.

The Hexagon club, an organization which embraces the six cities of Lanett, Shawmut, Langdale, Fairair, Riverview and West Point, at its meeting Tuesday night also went on record in favor of the proposition to bring the Georgia editors to West Point if possible.

West Point will make a strong effort to bring the convention here next year. Tipton Coffey, publisher of the two newspapers here and one of the "old boys" of the Georgia press, said he would be glad to have the convention here, which meets at Lenoir on July 16, with his sleeves rolled up. He hopes to have with him a delegation of "Quaker" West Pointers to get the press convention for West Point next year.

PARADE PLANS PROMISE BRIGHT SPECTACLE

From Quaker City.

Probably the largest visiting delegation to be seen in the procession will be that from Philadelphia. Approximately 600 representatives of Philadelphia will fall in behind their large band, drill corps, mounted guard and legion of honor unit.

Philadelphia also brings four elaborate floats, one of which will be a replica of the "Liberty Bell," another float will be a number of "Quaker girls," and another will represent Betsy Ross, presenting the American flag to George Washington.

The state of Pennsylvania's delegation will bring an interesting float. It will represent William Penn signing the peace treaty with the Indians, and has been beautifully portrayed.

In addition this state will send drill teams, one of which won the 1923 New York prize.

Among those delegations to be represented in the parade by bands or drill patrols will be St. Paul, Minn., drum corps; Detroit, Mich., drill corps; Jackson, Mich., drill corps; Savannah, Ga., band; San Antonio, Texas, drill corps; Macon, Ga., float and band; Waycross, Ga., float; White Plains, N. Y., drill corps; Albany, Ga., drum corps; Newbern, N. C., band; Athens, Ga., band; Dayton, Fla., drill corps and band; Iowa State association band.

U.S. Commission Target of Attack On Rail Valuation

Washington, July 5.—Arguments on the general principles involved in the federal valuation of railroads, now nearing completion, opened today before the interstate commerce commission with an attack on the methods of the commission in arriving at its conclusions by D. R. Richberg, counsel for the national conference on American railroad valuation. He was followed by P. J. Farrell, solicitor for the commission, in a defense of its valuation conclusions.

Mr. Richberg's chief contention was that the commission was bound to ascertain and use in placing a value on railroads estimates of the actual investment made in acquiring and constructing transportation properties. Where books are not available or are untrustworthy as to these figures, he said, the commission should assemble engineering experts to determine actual costs. He further urged that such first costs should not be allowed to include any excess payments made to contractors or others because of bad or dishonest management or for enhancement of profits.

Evidence Accumulated.

"Are you aware of the fact?" Chairman Meyer asked, "that in our transportation department we have accumulated a good deal of evidence as to the cost to date of railroad construction and that when reproduction costs as of the date 1914 are estimated, the two figures are very similar?"

"But if the commission is going to consider reproduction costs at all, Mr. Richberg responded, "it must consider the courts have ruled, the present costs of reproduction as they stand on the increased price levels of 1922 and 1923, not as costs of reproduction in 1914 would have been."

"That question will be considered when the problem of bringing valuation up to date is attacked," Chairman Meyer remarked.

"No," Mr. Richberg insisted, "We consider that the commission will obey the courts in constructing its valuation data. Observe then where we shall be left; we shall have here a figure representing the cost of reproducing roads on the price basis of 1922 or 1923. That tremendously enhanced levels of 1922 cost it will be impossible even to see the much smaller figure of the actual investment that was made in constructing railroads when they were made."

"Unless the commission ascertains what that original investment was, we shall be left totally without evidence to protect the public interest against the attempt to build up great figures of capital investment on which the courts in constructing its valuation up to date is attacked," Chairman Meyer remarked.

U.S. Commission Target of Attack On Rail Valuation

THREE-POWER PACT MEETS OPPOSITION

Washington, July 5.—Japan's suggestion for a three-power armament agreement with Great Britain and the United States, as a substitute for the five-power treaty signed at the Washington conference and still awaiting ratification by France, has met with small favor in high naval circles here. Not only would such a pact defeat its own purpose, according to the opinion of some naval experts, but in order to be of even moral value it would have to involve at least a tacit offensive and defensive alliance between the three signatories, viewed as improbable of congressional approval.

Elimination of France from the subscribing powers, it is pointed out, might be accepted as giving that country an unanswerable argument for embarking upon a comprehensive naval construction program.

In view of this situation, the American naval authorities, who helped frame the five-power Washington treaty are expected to advise against any reduction of the agreement to a three-power basis. It is emphasized, however, that the decision does not rest with the navy, but with the state department.

Watchman Found, Throat Slashed, In Court Offices

New York, July 5.—Vincent Calveca, a watchman in the children's court building, today was found dead, slashed with a bread knife, in an upper room of the building. Police declared a woman's footprints were found in the blood stains on the floor. The body was found in the detention room on a rug where a trail of blood extended to the office of a woman physician, attached to the court. In the office on a couch were various articles of male apparel, indicating, police said, that Calveca had been asleep when attacked.

Mrs. Louise Arnold, mother of five children, was taken from a cigar factory where she was employed, this afternoon, for questioning in connection with Calveca's murder. She was not placed under formal arrest. Her 16-year old son was also detained as a witness.

Mrs. Arnold's detention was decided upon when a probation officer told him of threats made by the woman.

WEST POINT WANTS STATE PRESS MEET

West Point, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—At its weekly luncheon today the West Point Rotary club unanimously passed a resolution to extend directly invitation to the Georgia Press association to meet here in 1924.

The Hexagon club, an organization which embraces the six cities of Lanett, Shawmut, Langdale, Fairfax, Riverview and West Point, at its meeting Tuesday night also went on to bring the Georgia editors to West Point if possible.

West Point will make a strong effort to bring the convention here next year. Tipton Coffee, publisher of the two newspapers here and one of the "old boys" of the Georgia press, is directly invited to the movement and will go to the convention, which meets at Lanett on July 16, with his sleeves rolled up. He hopes to have with him a live delegation of leading West Pointers to get the press convention for West Point next year.

From Quaker City.

Probably the largest visiting delegation to be seen in the procession will be that from Philadelphia. Approximately 600 representatives of Philadelphia will fall in behind their large band, drill corps, mounted guard and legion of honor unit.

Philadelphia also brings four elaborate floats, one of which will be a replica of the "Liberty Bell," another float will be another "Quaker City," and a third will represent Betsy Ross, presenting the American flag to George Washington.

The state of Pennsylvania's delegation will bring an interesting float. It will represent William Penn signing the peace treaty with the Indians, and has been beautifully portrayed. In addition this state will send drill teams, one of which won the 1923 New York prize.

Among those delegations to be represented in the parade by bands or drill patrols will be St. Paul, Minn.; drum corps; Detroit, Mich.; drill corps; Jackson, Mich.; drill corps; Savannah, Ga.; band; San Antonio, Texas; drill corps; Macon, Ga.; float and band; Waycross, Ga.; float; White Plains, N. Y.; drill corps; Albany, Ga.; drum corps; Newbern, N. C.; band; Athens, Ga.; band; Dayton, Fla.; drill corps and band; Iowa State association band.

A large delegation from the Pennsylvania southwest district will be present as a special honor to the grand exalted ruler, Edgar Masters. Also a large representation from South Dakota in honor of G. McFarland, the only candidate in the field for the chair of the grand exalted ruler. It is expected that Mr. McFarland will be elected at the opening session of the convention on Tuesday. One hundred and thirty-five men and a 30-piece band will accompany the South Dakota delegation.

The procession will be divided into divisions, which have not been announced as yet. It was stated, however, that in the first division all grand lodge officers would be borne in cars, with the grand exalted ruler and the past grand exalted ruler, Charles H. Gracklow, grand exalted ruler of Philadelphia, and W. P. Andrews, chairman of the parade committee, will also move in this division.

Ladies Must Register.

All members of the Atlanta lodge of Elks and members of their families, who are to take part in the various convention activities or wish to secure admission to any of the entertainment features must register at the convention headquarters in Thitt hall not later than Saturday, July 7, it was announced. The registration booth will be turned over to visitors from out of the city on Sunday and Monday, and for this reason all Atlanta Elks are requested to secure their credentials by Saturday night.

The ladies eligible to registration and for admission into the entertainment features given exclusively to Elks include wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Elks, but it is positively announced that before a registration card will be issued to a lady she must have a lady's identification card, which can be secured by application to Secretary B. C. Broyles at the Elks' Home, 40 East Ellis street, prior to the registration time.

By special action of the Atlanta lodge No. 78, B. P. O. E., an extra initiation ceremony will be held Thursday evening in the lodge rooms of the Elks Home, to receive into the lodge more than 100 men, whose applications for membership have been accepted and who have been prevented from taking their degree at previous ceremonies. The lodge will open promptly at 7 o'clock. Candidates must present themselves for qualification at that hour.

Annie Mae Coleman, who has charge of the Elks' billet, was presented with a bouquet of roses Wednesday night as a birthday gift from the entertainment committee at their banquet at the Elks' Home.

It was announced Thursday night that despite the proximity of the opening day of the Elks' grand lodge, sufficient automobiles have not yet been secured for the use of visiting Elks and owners of cars in Atlanta are urged by the automobile committee to offer their machines. Those who will permit their cars to be used are asked to communicate with Arthur I. May, chairman, 187 Peachtree street.

It was also announced that stickers for auto windshield, bearing the inscription, "Hell, Bill! Hop In," may be had by applying to the convention board headquarters, Arcade building, or 187 Peachtree street.

Captain Jos. R. Cooke, head of the Atlanta patrol, gave out the following orders for dress and uniforms to his men: From 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., purple cap, white shirt, purple tie and trousers; 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., dress coat, white trousers, white slippers and white belt.

The patrol of Atlanta lodge No. 78, will meet the first convention arrivals, the Jackson (Mich.) Zouaves, at 7 o'clock Friday morning, and the grand lodge officials, headed by Grand Exalted Ruler J. Edgar Masters, in the afternoon.

U.S. Commission Target of Attack On Rail Valuation

Washington, July 5.—Arguments on the general principles involved in the federal valuation of railroads, now nearing completion, opened today before the interstate commerce commission with an attack on the methods of the commission in arriving at its conclusions by D. R. Richberg, counsel for the national conference on American railroad valuation. He was followed by P. J. Farrell, solicitor for the commission, in a defense of its valuation conclusions.

Mr. Richberg's chief contention was that the commission was bound to ascertain and use in placing a value on railroads estimates of the actual investment made in acquiring and constructing transportation properties. Where books are not available or are untrustworthy as to these figures, he said, the commission should assemble engineering experts to determine actual costs. He further urged that such first costs should not be allowed to include excess payments made to contractors or others because of bad or dishonest management, or for enhancement of profits.

Evidence Accumulated.

"Are you aware of the fact?" Chairman Meyer asked. "That in our valuation department we have accumulated a good deal of evidence as to the cost to date of railroad construction and that when reproduction costs as of the date 1914 are estimated, the two figures are very similar?"

"But if the commission is going to consider reproduction costs at all Mr. Richberg responded, 'it must consider the costs of reproduction as they stand on the increased price levels of 1922 and 1923, not as costs of reproduction in 1914 would have been.'"

"That question will be considered when the problem of bringing valuation up to date is attacked," Chairman Meyer remarked.

"No," Mr. Richberg insisted. "We consider that the commission will obey the courts in constructing its valuation data. Observe then where we shall be left; we shall have here a figure representing the cost of reproducing roads on the price basis of 1922 or 1923. That tremendously enhanced levels of 1922 cost it will be impossible even to see the much smaller figure of the actual investment when they were made."

"Unless the commission ascertains what that original investment was, we shall be left totally without evidence to protect the public interest against the attempt to build up great figures of capital investment on which the public will be required to furnish an annual return."

Solicitor Farrell argued that the element of cost to date never could be established as a fact. Some data as to actual investment made by original railroad builders would be helpful, he conceded, but not of final importance in swaying a commission conclusion as to the value of a railroad.

The hearing, begun today, is expected to continue through Saturday.

SHELBY RETURNS TO NORMAL AFTER TITLE FIGHT

Promoters Suffer Large Financial Loss; Gibbons' Showing Was Startling

Referee Failed to Strictly Enforce Rules and Both Fighters Were Lax in Obeying Them; Bout Will Help Dempsey.

WELCOME FOR GIBBONS.
St. Paul, July 5.—A big parade with several bands, hundreds of automobiles and other features is being planned as part of St. Paul's welcome to Tommy Gibbons when the local fighter returns Saturday from Shelby, where he was defeated by Jack Dempsey yesterday.

This was part of a tentative program announced tonight by a group of St. Paul citizens. Final plans will be completed tomorrow. Governor Preus, Mayor Nelson of St. Paul, and other high officials have signified their intention of taking part in the welcoming.

One of those who, it is reported, to greet Tommy will be his famous brother, Mike, who taught Tommy much he knows of the fight game. The two had a quarrel several years ago and since neither has spoken to the other. The cause of their dispute never has been made public.

(BY HEYWOOD BROWN)
Shelby, Mont., July 5.—Shelby is satisfied. When the expert accountants have finished their job their findings will probably show that the backers of the bout have lost approximately $300,000. The gross receipts were only $250,000. But Shelby takes pride in the fact that it did see the fight through.

As late as the afternoon of the fight a hitch developed over the fee of the referee, and of course before the bout had been officially declared dead a dozen times. Not only did Shelby rejoice at the fact that the heavyweight contest, actually came into being, but it is tremendously pleased because Gibbons made such a good showing. This feeling is based partly on the warm regard of the people hereabouts for the St. Paul fighter, but even more on hatred for all newspapermen and particularly fight experts.

The visiting reporters made fun of Shelby and said that it was a dismal swamp. Well, so Shelby reasons, the world knows now that the experts were wrong about the fight, and so it ought to realize also that they were wrong about Shelby. For our part we dispute this logic. It is true that Tommy Gibbons did last fifteen rounds with Dempsey in spite of predictions, but that doesn't make Shelby an ideal spot for homecoming. Everybody Was Wrong.

Still there is no reason to deny the state of Montana its delight at the discomfiture of the men who announce the result of events before they happen. It is the fundamental right of any normal community or individual to hate an expert. An expert is a person who tells you why something which you very much desire is impossible.

Usually he doesn't pretend to be inspired but sooner or later sanctity surrounds his utterances whether he deserves it or not and his downfall is invariably much appreciated. His failures are inevitable for after all the expert in any line must guess upon occasion.

The secrets of the future are well concealed and a prediction never knocked out anybody. The greatest flaw in the preliminary reasoning of all the fight observers lay in under estimating the power of resistance Gibbons possessed. Much publicity has been given to the fact that Tom has never been knocked off his feet. That was discounted. The general belief was that Gibbons could not take punishment. This notion must now be erased. Although the challenger left the ring with hardly a mark upon him he must have suffered fearfully in the first round which was the period in which Dempsey did his most successful fighting.

Later Gibbons showed great skill in blocking this attack, with the exception of a spurt which lasted through the fifth and sixth rounds. Gibbons was on the defensive. Particularly in the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds, Gibbons clung desperately. He paid no attention to orders to break and had to be literally pried off his man.

Some spectators pointed out that with a strict enforcement of the rules Gibbons might have been disqualified in the last two rounds but the rules were not strictly enforced at any stage of the fight.

Fight Was Exciting.
The general impression is that there was no rules. Dempsey held and hit Gibbons on the breakaway. To a large extent the fight was a brawl. Few championship battles have seen such

The Pace Setters of the Perrin Sunday School league divided a double-header with the Grantville team, losing the first 8 to 7, but coming back strong in the second 9 to 4.

JEFFRIES IS BARRED

Trenton, N. J., July 5.—Jim Jeffries, former world heavyweight champion, will not be permitted by the laws of this state to referee the Firpo-Willard contest at Boyle's Thirty Acres on July 12, Newton Hughes, New Jersey boxing commissioner, announced today.

RECORD SET BY FREEMAN

H. D. Freeman, of the Atlanta Gun club, set a new world's amateur trapshooting record Wednesday, July 4, at the Gun club when he shot 100 birds from the 23-yard line out of 100 targets. The former amateur record was 98 and the mark set by Freeman had been equaled but once, and that was in 1916 when C. A. Young, of Dayton, Ohio, set a professional record.

Not only did Freeman score a perfect record in the singles' shoot, but he shot 50 straight in the handicap that tied two fellow mates, he then shot 25 more straight, giving him a total of 150 straight and a perfect record for the afternoon, not missing a single bird in the holiday shoot.

CLOSE GAMES TO CONYERS

Conyers, Ga., July 5.—Conyers celebrated the glorious Fourth by winning a double header from the fast DeKalb All-Stars by the score of 5-4 and 8-7.

Both games were full of thrills and exciting play and were not decided until the final out. The first game went two extra innings in order to decide the winner, Conyers winning in the ninth on a two-bagger by Summers and singles by Tucker and Sims.

The last game ended when Conyers came from behind and scored the tying and winning run in the eighth. The hitting of E. Sims, Summers and Smith and a one-handed stab of a line drive by Sims featured the morning game, while the afternoon game was featured by the hitting of Cousins and Queen for the visitors and the fielding of Sims, Tucker and Summers for the home team.

THOMAS LETS FRANCHISE GO

Meridian, Miss., July 5.—(Special)—Ira Thomas, president of the Shreveport Baseball and Amusement company, owners of the Shreveport club of the Texas league, have relinquished the franchise of the Meridian club of the Cotton States league and the Meridian Baseball association has again assumed charge and will operate the club to the end of the present season, August 28.

The Shreveport organization took over the Meridian franchise at the opening of the Cotton States season and have operated the club to the present time at a heavy financial loss.

Following the meeting of last night the local association today took charge of the club, released J. Paul Jones, who has been piloting the club for the Shreveport franchise holders and elected "Bill" Bougeon, left fielder of the local club, as his successor.

Pitcher Youngblood has also been released and he and Jones both will return to the Shreveport club. Other players of that club will continue with the local club to the end of the season, when they will be returned, the local association only retaining the players they owned when the franchise was turned over to Shreveport.

Baseball enthusiasm is renewed here with the return of the franchise to Meridian and the local association will have no trouble in financing the club for the remainder of the season. Citizens have pledged the support needed, it was stated tonight.

College Star Signed.
Charlotte, N. C., July 5.—Clifford "Pat" Crawford, star first-baseman at Davidson College, has been signed by the Charlotte South Atlantic association, and will report next spring, it was learned today. Crawford is "anaging the Lenoir club in the Blue Ridge league, a semi-professional organization, this summer and his specialty seems to be home runs.

Selected to present the gift of the Druid Hills club to young Mr. Adair was that grand sportsman and citizen, John S. Cohen, who spoke with a depth of feeling and sincerity in bestowing the handsome silver upon Perry. Major Cohen referred to the three Adairs—George W. Adair, Sr., and the second George W. Adair, father of Perry, and bespoke for the younger man the same spirit of foresight which his father and grandfather had possessed. He paid a high tribute to Perry with reference to the final match at Birmingham.

Other Speakers.
Dr. Thomas P. Hinman, president of the Druid Hills club; and Robert P. Jones, father of Bobby Jones, followed Perry after the latter had acknowledged the silver gift of the club. Both made speeches which drew great applause. Homer George and Ed Danforth told of the play in that final match, and each paid a high tribute to Perry. Following this the last speaker of the night, Milton Dargan, was introduced and he added to the fine words of the others. Mr. Dargan went back to the first introduction of golf in Atlanta, when a bunch of sportsmen built a six-hole course at Piedmont park, and then told of how he and H. M. Atkinson, with associates, had caused George W. Adair—who up to that time had never played the game—to interest himself in East Lake and whose interest is responsible for the many fine clubs now in Atlanta.

The dinner was a tremendous success and under the picturesque settings left a sweet memory in the heart of each man present which will carry for many years. The response of Perry Adair to the speech of Major Cohen was modest and sincere and went straight to the hearts of all. He was given a real ovation.

Following the dinner Dr. Hinman was called upon to present to Charles Preacher, manager of the club, a blue ribbon order conferred by the Credit Men's association after its recent meeting in Atlanta.

AMERICAN IS ELIMINATED

Henley on Thames, July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The English tradition that the Henley regatta honors should be kept at home were lived up to today when the last of foreigners including Russell Codman, Jr., Boston sculler, was eliminated from the classic Thames regatta.

The Canadian champion, Hilton Belyea, perhaps because of his dominion status, was allowed to remain in the race, but he was forced to pull for another day at least in return for his assistance to England's cause today in ousting Dr. Rudolph Bossard, of the Grasshopper club, Zurich, Switzerland.

The United States also had a little share in making the regatta all British, as the Oklanian, W. P. Mellon, who stroked the brave Regatta college eight to victory over the French crew, hails from America.

Follows Hoover.
Codman followed Walter Hoover, of Duluth, out of the diamonds competition proving no match for D. H. L. Gollan, deaf and dumb British sculler, who led from the start. As Codman neared the crowded finish he showed a fine fighting spirit and by a magnificent spurt greatly cut down Gollan's lead, finishing two lengths behind and pushing the Englishman's time to minutes, 30 seconds, which was faster than he needed to beat Hoover yesterday.

Tomorrow Belyea races Gollan, but the experts have little hopes of the overseas man winning. They expect Gollan and Belford to meet in the final Saturday, and the latter is picked to win as he did in 1920.

SCOTTDAL TEAM BEATS HONOR FARM
The strong Scottdale team won from the Federal Prison Honor farm team by the score of 6 to 4 yesterday at the Honor farm.

The game was played on both sides, both teams doing their utmost to win with Scottdale getting a little the best of the breaks.

Kolter, Traker Bennett and Oakford played the best ball for the Honor farm, while Hardy, W. Gaines, H. Gaines, Knight and Pierce played the best ball for Scottdale.

Newest apartments have ranges built into recesses, so that a curtain may be hung over the opening to conceal the stove.

Exorbitant Prices Paid Fighters Has Threatened Popularity of Fight Game

Rickard Has Been Opposed to Large Purses, While O'Rourke Announces That $10 Will Be Highest Price for Seats.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The mirage of financial success prompted promoters to guarantee Dempsey a purse of $310,000, but the receipts probably will not amount to half that sum. Because of the gambler, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, took on his last $100,000, in order to avert an eleven hour collapse of the match, Dempsey will not get his full amount, but he already has received, by the payment of $210,000, more than he was paid for any other match except that with Georges Carpentier, when his share was $200,000.

But Shelby's is not the only record of financial failure in pugilism this year. New York has had two recent examples.

While no definite figures were revealed, the Polo Grounds Athletic club was understood to have lost heavily on two title bouts, the match between Johnny Kilbane and Eugene Criqui for the featherweight crown and two weeks later the contest between Jim

New York, July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The financial disaster attending the Dempsey-Gibbons championship fight yesterday at Shelby probably has sounded the death knell of exorbitant purses for title matches, boxing circles here today were convinced.

Reaction on the part of both promoters and public from the high finance that has threatened the popularity of the fight game has been apparent for some time, but it was said to have reached a climax yesterday in the price that the Little Montana town paid for its picturesque bout, in many ways, tragic spectacle.

On the same day the fiasco at Michigan City, where Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight contender, refused to go through with his match with Sailor Freedman, of Chicago, at the last minute when promoters failed to provide the full amount of his purse was further proof of the menace, it was said.

$200,000 Loss.
The cost of Shelby's lesson is estimated in round figures at $200,000.

LOCALS GENEROUS TO PELS AT CLIFF BEST'S EXPENSE

Terrible Plays in the Second Inning Give Pelicans Runs Needed to Win Final Game

Crackers Settle Down After Niehaus Relieves Little Southpaw, But Pels' Lead Is Too Much.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Diamond diagnosticians who have prescribed successfully for certain ailments—fancied and real—of the Crackers, are now ready to admit that they can't lead the boys to pieces when little Cliff Best is given the pitching assignment. We doubt seriously if there is a hurler in the Southern league who has had more games spoiled for him by his mates than the aforementioned Mr. Best, our nominee for the hardest luck man connected with the pastime.

Yesterday Best stayed on the hill just long enough to lose to New Orleans, 6 to 2, and yet he was no more to blame for the humiliation than he was for the start of the recent unpleasantness with the Pelicans. If there is a sin in baseball that was not committed by Best's comrades, we don't know much about the commandments of the profession. The Birds were presented with a run in the first inning. The Crackers, always generous to a fault when transacting business with Larry Gilbert's outfit, became alarmed in this session when it appeared that the Pels would not send across a run, due mainly to the nice pitching unrolled by Best, so a hard error was invented by Turner Barber and the visitors made use of the bubble.

More Generosity. With "Dixie" Walker hurling for the opposition, one run looks mighty big to the home folk, but the Crackers were not yet through with displaying generosity, all of course, at the expense of Clifford Best, who could do nothing save stand by and watch his mound advantage suffer. Up came the second and the Crackers fairly bubbled over with a desire to give the Pelicans anything that was needed to carve out runs for the second time.

Long before this terrible frame drove a close the Birds had enough talk on their score card to win a couple of games. The Crackers were not yet through with displaying generosity, all of course, at the expense of Clifford Best, who could do nothing save stand by and watch his mound advantage suffer. Up came the second and the Crackers fairly bubbled over with a desire to give the Pelicans anything that was needed to carve out runs for the second time.

The damage, of course, had already been accomplished, so the stubborn fight waged by the Crackers in the late innings and their brave effort to overcome a lead glaring mistakes had given the Birds, were overlooked by the cash and the crowd. The victory gave the Pelicans three out of the five games played during the series. The record of the Crackers, however, is not so good as it is in the past. The damage, of course, had already been accomplished, so the stubborn fight waged by the Crackers in the late innings and their brave effort to overcome a lead glaring mistakes had given the Birds, were overlooked by the cash and the crowd. The victory gave the Pelicans three out of the five games played during the series.

"Killy" Has Bad Day. Glenn Killinger was a big offender in losing the game for Best, the Cracker third sacker, making three errors in two of the coming in the second inning and all the while he was in the scoring. Turner Barber was another of the Cracker liabilities who went through a poor afternoon. Johnny Riney, who was picked up in the second inning and Herman slowed up a Cracker rally by getting caught off second. Killinger, too, strayed off first and he picked off this occurrence adding to "Killy's" troubles.

Little good baseball was dispensed. The game consumed two hours and twenty minutes, due mainly to the Cracker's deliberate work. Eddie Moore did some splendid fielding in the ninth inning when the Pels threatened to turn "Cotton" Knapp's double into another run, but for the most part Philadelphia, July 5.—St. Louis stopped off in this city for a single game with Philadelphia today, and the contest lasted 10 to 12. Hornsby had two home runs and a double in four trips to the plate and then retired from the game. The two players took part in the face and both teams used up pitchers, none effectively.

LANETT TEAM WINS COUPLE

LANETT, Ala., July 5.—(Special.)—The Lanett team defeated the Gordon Street Barons of Atlanta here Wednesday afternoon in a double header, taking the first game by count of 5 to 4, and the last encounter resulting 4 to 2.

Whitney, who worked the first game for the visitors' pitched good ball, but was given wretched support in the pinnches. Tanager for the locals also pitched well, and received excellent support from his team mates with men on the paths.

The Lanett infield pulled two double plays with runners on first and second in the second game, and the visitors' pitcher, Whitney, was given wretched support in the pinnches. Tanager for the locals also pitched well, and received excellent support from his team mates with men on the paths.

In the second game, Hasty for the locals worked hard, giving the Barons only one hit, and sending seven to the bench via the strikeout route. The locals bunched hits with errors and scored an easy victory. Cowart's pinch-hitting in this game was a feature.

Tee Shot Is Fifty Per Cent Of Golf, Declares Hagen

Hitting Long Ball From Tee Inspires Golfer With Confidence for Second Shot.

BY WALTER HAGEN.
(British Open Champion.)
(Copyright 1923 in U. S. and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

The drive, or what we golfers all know is the tee shot, is about fifty per cent of golf at least. One may figure that a putt or an approach is more valuable, but if one should happen to top his drive into a trap or bunker, or slice the tall uncut grass, where a stroke or two may be wasted in getting out, the sinking of a long putt—or laying an approach dead to the pin—will hardly be enough to get a half, let alone winning the hole.

The first thing in golf is to get away from tee properly. It is not necessary to drive a ball further than your opponent, but it is necessary to hit the ball well down the course where you will have position if not extreme length. I think any sensible golfer would rather take chances on getting the drive away than on getting the putt down the hole. A missed drive might be costly indeed, while a missed putt may not count for more than one stroke.

Inspires Confidence.
The thrill that comes in hitting a long tee shot has made golf the popular game that it is today. It may not be advisable to spend all one's time learning the wooden club shots, but a certain amount of attention should be paid to this department of the game, if for no other reason than to give one confidence. A good drive usually gives one reason to think that the next shot will be a good one also, and a good shot is more likely to follow than if one hit a poor tee shot.

The fault with most duffers and beginners is in attempting to hit the ball too hard. A well timed swing with the force applied in the proper manner produces far better results than if one slugged the ball for all he was worth. This we all know as "pressing." A duffer presses without knowing how to hit the ball properly. For instance, he will either swing back so fast that all rhythm is lost, or he will throw his body into the swing before the clubhead has connected with the ball. These two faults stop many an ambitious golfer from advancing far in the game. To succeed one must learn these important things at the beginning.

Most golfers are very impatient and do not like to wait for the clubhead. When reminded of this fault they are at a loss to know how to correct it. The only way to obtain any results that will be satisfactory is to hold the body perfectly still until the clubhead is on the ball. I start the club back with the left hand doing the pushing, as it is easier to push with the left hand than to pull with the right; this is why the principal work in hitting the ball is done with the right. One does not have much power pulling the club through with the left hand.

Flying Elbows Dangerous.
Important things to remember in the back swing is to keep the right elbow well in to the side. If one will tuck both elbows in and pivot he will get an idea of what the swing should be. Flying elbows are dangerous. They prevent the club from descending in the same track, it has taken in going up.

A straight left arm is all right for the golfer with a very flat swing, but it is impossible for the upright swinger. The elbow should bend a little to permit the club to take its position over the shoulder. The full swing means a horizontal position at the top. The club points to the line of flight and the toe of the club points to the ground. The weight, when in this position is mostly on the right leg. The left leg is off the ground because the body has pivoted more or less on the right leg.

This is one-half of the golf swing. The pupil now has the club over the shoulder all ready to start hitting. I will explain the second half in my next article.

BOUT MOVIES ARE BARRED

Chicago, July 5.—Reports that moving pictures of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby yesterday were en route to Chicago by airplane led to the announcement today by U. S. District Attorney Edwin A. Olson that the exhibitors who attempt to show them will be arrested on warrants charging violation of the federal law prohibiting interstate shipment of fight films.

According to information obtained from the district attorney's office the exhibitor has in two previous cases been fined $1,000 by the federal authorities, but had continued to show the fight pictures without further charges being levied from the federal city officials.

It is planned to arrest the pilot of the airplane and seize the films.

ST. PAUL PLAYERS SUSPENDED AND FINED

Chicago, July 5.—President Thomas Hickey, of the American association, suspended five members of the St. Paul club and one Milwaukee player Thursday, as a result of a riot at the St. Paul field Sunday when angry fans protested an alleged attempt by St. Paul players to adopt unfair tactics.

The suspended players are: Cliff Markle, pitcher; Nick Allen, St. Paul catcher; Primo Haas, outfielder; L. J. Boone, shortstop; suspended indefinitely and fined $50, Marty Berghamer, second baseman, suspended for five days, no fine. Oscar Melillo, Milwaukee outfielder, suspended five days, no fine.

Short Pegs
This fine vigorous recruit to the American language, this word Ballyhoo, came wandering in from the circus lot. And so it was, in the circus way for there it was the term to describe the hokum and the spiel from the shillabear's platform where the men in the checkered vest columnar kelly took his stand, to tap the lithographs of the fat lady and the tattooed gal and hustle the clientele with the advertisement that were standing right-a-way! There was nothing about the dark methods of the circus that the word Ballyhoo wasn't he to.

But the word Ballyhoo has explored a new world of mystery since it shook hands with Tex Rickard, Jack Kearns, Mike Collins, Billy Gibson and Tom O'Rourke. They enfolded it to their bosoms, close to their fountain pens and check-books and bathed it in essence anent. What would they have done—what ever would they do now—without Ballyhoo, the innocent child of the circus that wandered unsuspectingly into the prize fight trade?

It was Ballyhoo that made Carpenter seem to have a character when he had no chance. It was Ballyhoo that exploited the business quarrel between Benny Leonard and Lefty Lewis Tender to the extent that they carried off more than $100,000 for a twelve-round fight to no decision. It was Ballyhoo again that gave false impression as to the real value of a nondescript prize-fight title known as the light heavyweight championship and to those other split hairs of pugilism, the American lightweight and American light heavyweight championships.

It is Ballyhoo now which gave Tom Gibbons his fight with Dempsey—the same Tom who a year ago was conceded to have no more chance against the champion than a squiggle from the Erie canal against the fleet of Britain. Ballyhoo! Gibbons has scored 15 knockouts or some such figure in 34 fights. Ballyhoo! No matter that many of the knockouts were repeaters, in which Tommy's sparring partners would be introduced under various names and sent in to take their own defeat in training camp swats on the whiskers.

Welcome Ballyhoo! The language has need of you.

Three Heavies Now Stand Out For Titular Bout

BY PAUL FREDRIX.

New York, July 5.—Jack Dempsey's defeat of Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Mont., July 4, narrows the remaining field of heavyweight challengers to three men:

1. Luis Angelo Firpo, the Argentine slugger, whose might rivals that of the champion himself.

2. Jess Willard, who lost the title to Dempsey at Toledo in 1919.

3. Harry Wills, the giant negro, who for two years has vainly sought a match with Dempsey.

On July 12 this field will be reduced to two men. For on that day Firpo and Willard will meet in a 12-round elimination bout at Jersey City and one or the other will surrender his right to meet Dempsey.

"Gibbons would never stay 15 rounds with me as he did with Jack," said the Pampas wild man. "I have a stronger blow than Dempsey and can stand greater punishment."

Willard, who is at a disadvantage in the betting on his fight with Firpo, was less sanguine. Declaring Gibbons to be one of the best men in the ring he said he was "not surprised to hear he had stayed the limit against Dempsey."

New York sport writers were almost unanimous in pronouncing Dempsey's stock had tumbled by his failure to knock out Gibbons. Dempsey, they said, had won his title cheaply by conquests over men who had steadily sidestepped opposition from first-class fight machines like Haggy Wills.

Dempsey, they added, annexed his million-dollar crown by "sharp tactics" in the ring with Willard in 1919.

"Jack's victory over Willard was gained by rather sly methods, and there was any truth in the story that his hands were doctored that day," said Fred Keats in The Sun. "The terrible wounds left by Dempsey's left glove were not duplicated before or since that battle, which is a good indication that something was wrong. In any case, Willard was a slow-moving fellow, in no condition to fight."

Willard, they added, annexed his million-dollar crown by "sharp tactics" in the ring with Willard in 1919.

Though Gibbons got none of the actual gate receipts at the Shelby fight, he laid the way to a small fortune in future battles, it is generally believed. Shelby was not alone in wishing he would win. Broadway, pausing in front of bulletin boards to read the return round by round applauded the challenger every successful blow. Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker of the Polo Grounds Athletic club, seized on this enthusiasm by saying he would attempt to sign Gibbons for a match here early in the fall. The opponent was not named.

So far there has been no more by eastern fight men to bring Gibbons and Dempsey into a return engagement hereabouts, although a meeting between the two would draw heavily. There is some agitation for a meeting between Gibbons and the winner of the Firpo-Willard scrap, the victor to meet Dempsey in a final disposition of the title. Here again the name of Harry Wills is not mentioned.

Failure of the Shelby fight financially has given added impetus to the decision of the Polo grounds promoters and several champions to reduce top admittance prices to $10. Thousands of seats at the Fourth of July battle, listed originally at $22 to $35, were sold at $10 or less when the crowd at the gates refused to pay more.

Believing the day of huge fighters' guarantees is past, following the collapse of the $310,000 offered Dempsey, New York critics declined to take seriously the reported offer of $500,000 made by the Young Men's Gymnastic club Wednesday for a 20-round return bout between Dempsey and Gibbons at New Orleans on Thanksgiving day. "We are assured the necessary backing," said the club offer.

But that's what Shelby said, too.

Seven Balloons Remained In Race Late Last Night

Six of the Entries Have Been Forced to the Ground Because of Defects in Crafts.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Seven of the thirteen balloons which took off here yesterday afternoon in the national contest for distance still were in the air and drifting east over eastern Ohio at a late hour this afternoon, according to word received by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, sponsor for the race.

Thrills aplenty marked the brief stay in the air of the four bags which reported having landed near various cities in Indiana and Ohio. One pilot and his aide were forced to jump for safety as their balloon came down.

They suffered slight injuries and the loss of their ship, which later descended. Two other baskets were brought to earth for forced landings, but the men suffered no injury. Army and navy entries may have a decided advantage in the contest now, as five of the seven craft remaining in the running belong to the service. The other two balloons, which, so far as is known, still are drifting on, are the American Legionnaire and the St. Louis. The army has three ships in the race and the navy four. The quarter of entries which have ended their journeys were privately owned.

Pilots who are out of the race are Roy F. Donaldson, Springfield, Ill., in charge of the City of Springfield; W. T. Van Orman, of Akron, Ohio, in charge of the City of Akron; Ralph Upson, Detroit, flying the Detroit; Jack Boettner, of Akron, Ohio, in command of the Goodyear II; Lieutenant James Jordan, piloting the army balloon S-7, and Lieutenant-Commander J. A. Northfleet, of the navy balloon A-8074.

Boettner traveled approximately 300 miles, a greater distance than any of the others who had landed. He brought his ship down near Fremont, Ohio, at 11 a. m. today when he saw that he was drifting toward the lake.

Donaldson reported he was unable to operate the rip panel on the City of Springfield and the ship made a hurried landing, both the pilot and P. A. Earls, Springfield, Ill., jumping as the basket skinned the ground. They were slightly injured. The balloon escaped them with all their equipment, but later drifted down near Sylvania, Ohio.

Upson experienced a thrill when the bag of his craft split at a height of 5,500 feet and began to descend rapidly. He cut the ropes at the bottom of the balloon, however, and it formed a parachute and drifted to earth, with 50 per cent gas expended. The descent was made in six minutes the craft landing near Wapakoneta, Ohio, at 2 p. m. this morning.

Torn fabric forced W. T. Van Orman, of Akron, Ohio, in the City of Akron to quit the race at 10 o'clock last night. He came to the ground five miles north of Hartford City, Ind., giving up only after he had thrown away all of his equipment in an effort to ascend.

Upson reported having been in conversation last night with Lieutenant Commander J. F. Norfleet, of Lakehurst, N. J., who is riding in a navy entry, the United States navy No. A-8074, as the ships drifted over Muncie. Conversation was held by use of megaphones, he said. The Detroit airman also got information on weather conditions from Schenectady by radio.

Great Falls, Mont., July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, tonight is starting on a few days' vacation after his confining nine weeks' training grind for his championship battle with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby yesterday. The titleholder, accompanied by his father, Lord Stannard, a nephew and Mike Trant, a Chicago detective sergeant, left for Salt Lake City to visit with his day, wore a bandage over his right eye, which was completely swollen shut. Drake entered the ring with the eye badly bruised as a result of working with Dempsey, and Gorman had no difficulty in closing it.

Billy Wells, the British welterweight, is matched to box in Omaha any improvements were to remain. Heavyweight, plans to return home.

Fires Suit.
Suits for $1,750 in damages alleged to have been done to property at Dempsey's camp, was filed in circuit court today by the owners of the property.

The owners contend that when the lease of the house was signed, that any improvements were to remain. The complaint alleged that the two boxing rings valued at $750 had been removed and that plumbing installed in the house, valued at $500, also had been taken out. The bill further states that a cess pool was allowed to fill with water and overflow causing damages amounting to $500 to the furniture and walls of the house.

Columbia Gets Players.
Charlotte, N. C., July 5.—Outfielder Tobin and Shortstop Rickenberg have been loaned by Detroit to the Columbia South Atlantic club and are to report at once, it was learned here today. Everett Bankston, outfielder, sold by Charlotte to Augusta, has gone to his home in Georgia, it was said, leaving word that he would not report because he was refused part of the purchase price.

Miss Helen Wills was introduced to Illinois net enthusiasts today when the California girl won her first round match from Miss Margaret Anderson, 6-1, 6-0.

George Lott, of Chicago, won his way to the junior finals by defeating Frank O'Connell, 6-2, 6-3. He will oppose David O'Loughlin, of Pittsburgh, who defeated Sandy Weiner, Tilden's protegee and doubles partner, 6-2, 6-3.

The gallery was thrilled by the spectacular playing of Alonso and Johnson in the doubles matches, this crack pair defeating Barkland and Smith of Chicago, 6-3, 6-0, and then Rice and Drake of Chicago, 6-4, 6-3.

Long Branch, N. J., July 5.—Jack McLaughlin, II, who demonstrated in his third round knockout by Luis Firpo two months ago that he is more of a demon as a sparring partner than he is in the ring, lived up to his reputation Wednesday by putting a jagged cut over Firpo's left eye in a training bout.

The two men went through a slashing five-round scrap at Firpo's quarters here in preparation for Firpo's fight with Jess Willard at Jersey City July 12. McLaughlin will box a preliminary against Floyd Johnson, the Iowa who was knocked out by

Jack Dempsey Takes Lay-Off After Gibbons Bout

Will Go to Salt Lake City to Visit His Mother—Expects to Start Training Again August 1.

Great Falls, Mont., July 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, tonight is starting on a few days' vacation after his confining nine weeks' training grind for his championship battle with Tommy Gibbons at Shelby yesterday. The titleholder, accompanied by his father, Lord Stannard, a nephew and Mike Trant, a Chicago detective sergeant, left for Salt Lake City to visit with his day, wore a bandage over his right eye, which was completely swollen shut. Drake entered the ring with the eye badly bruised as a result of working with Dempsey, and Gorman had no difficulty in closing it.

Billy Wells, the British welterweight, is matched to box in Omaha any improvements were to remain. Heavyweight, plans to return home.

Fires Suit.
Suits for $1,750 in damages alleged to have been done to property at Dempsey's camp, was filed in circuit court today by the owners of the property.

The owners contend that when the lease of the house was signed, that any improvements were to remain. The complaint alleged that the two boxing rings valued at $750 had been removed and that plumbing installed in the house, valued at $500, also had been taken out. The bill further states that a cess pool was allowed to fill with water and overflow causing damages amounting to $500 to the furniture and walls of the house.

Columbia Gets Players.
Charlotte, N. C., July 5.—Outfielder Tobin and Shortstop Rickenberg have been loaned by Detroit to the Columbia South Atlantic club and are to report at once, it was learned here today. Everett Bankston, outfielder, sold by Charlotte to Augusta, has gone to his home in Georgia, it was said, leaving word that he would not report because he was refused part of the purchase price.

The Silly Season For Boys and Girls

BY LOUISE DOOLY.

The wedding bells of June pealed their last a week ago, and the next open season for weddings, according to long custom, will not begin until the fall. But the really dangerous days are upon us; the days of summer love-making, which may or may not end in orange blossoms when autumn comes.

Now is a time of relaxation, of vacation, and boys and girls, young men and women, are thrown together with a frequency, sometimes a constancy, and often a degree of familiarity, which, in the minds of people with old-fashioned ideas (and there are still some few) is a bit startling.

If one has unconstructed views about the sweetness of youth, for instance, and the modesty of young girls, on the one hand, and the courtesy and deference of young men on the other, one comes up with a start only too often, to wonder what part parents are taking, if any, in the supervising of the associates their sons and daughters are to have for the summer time diversions.

There will be long days together at house parties or picnics, and long evenings, with an astonishing free use of automobiles for chaperoneless rides. And whatever traditions of convention may have been thrown overboard, even the most advanced of the socially emancipated will confess their belief still in the dangers or the advantages (according to degree and circumstance) of promiscuity.

There was once upon a time a father of several daughters, whose mothers had moulded their youth into shapes of real lovefulness, and this father made one of his rules that he permitted no young man any association with a daughter of his whom he would not have considered worthy to be his husband. Possibly this cut down the number of his daughters' cavaliers; but come to think of it, why should any sweet girl be subjected to association with young men not of her own and her parents' standards of principle and conduct?

Of course it was easier in other days to control this situation of the election of the companions of youthful sons and daughters, because in other days most of the social life of the young people was enjoyed in the home. Now, its setting is more usually the country club or even the country road.

The safeguarding of the associations of young boys, young men, careful parents consider just as important as that of their daughters. Both sons and daughters have illusions which it is a pity to shatter. With both there should be a bloom of idealism, of romanticism, which means much more of safety to their human happiness than does the facing too soon of the crude realism that belittles romance. And realism is much more likely to be faced too soon when promiscuity is unguarded, indiscriminate, and continual.

Next fall when boys and girls, stung deep with the spirit of the new freedom (which is founded largely in parental weakness), are far gone in infatuation, and see nothing of happiness in the future unless it begins with wedding bells, then it will be a bit late for parents to question what kind of a young man is this Reginald in whom their daughter says is bound-up all her hopes of happiness; or how this Daisy Belle has been reared who their son says is the one woman in the world for him.

Wherefore, can anything in the world be more important? Just now than a careful supervision of the girls' and boys' social program for July and August? Is it conceivable that they can, themselves, have that seasoned and calm judgment of character at 'teen age which equips them to choose wisely their associates, boys and girls, and eliminate from their lists the unfit?

Finally, can anyone sincerely believe that the young people can spend a summer with indiscriminate groups of friends, and in the fall come out unscathed? And further, can any parent question that the girls and boys, whose circle of intimates is selected, and of their own kind and standards, will stand a much better chance when fall comes to look back upon a summer with no regrets; but rather a season of memories to sweeten the meditative moments of a lifetime?

—Asheville, July, 1923.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Beginning of Adventure.

"Gloria, I like you a lot!" Guy Richards leaned across the little table that they shared in the dining car, his voice tender. Gloria smiled, and turned from the window to face him.

"That's fine seven in the list of 'Remarks that Make a Hit,' isn't it, Guy?" she asked. "Don't bother about saying things of that sort to me, please—people who've grown up together."

"We haven't grown up together; I haven't seen you for three years," he interrupted. "We knew each other as kids, and then I went off to school and college, and abroad and out west for vacations and you went to boarding school, and now you're the prettiest thing I've seen for a blue moon and I want to tell you so!"

"Well, you've done it," she answered, studying the menu card. "Now let's talk about something else." "All right—I'll tell you what a brick you are last night, to stick by Andrews as you did. I don't know another girl who'd have done it. He was better this afternoon, and asked for you—evidently at the time that he wasn't actually unconscious, he knew that you were there; he said that when he'd feel himself slipping it was knowing that he could hang on to your hand that saved him. You did a pretty thing last night, Gloria."

She glanced out of the window again, hoping to hide the fact that she felt that she had started on an adventure.

Oh, look at those perfectly gorgeous strawberries in that shop window, I really must have a box for luncheon. Strawberries are my favorite berry. They are my favorite, also, but as you know that if I should eat only one the next day I would break out in great red blotches and my skin would seem to be on fire, and it would be almost a week before I would get over that awful acid feeling in my stomach.

Why, that is the way strawberries always affected me ever since I was a child until a short time ago a friend told me how to satisfy my longing and suffer no ill effects afterward, so I will tell you. Miss Chandler Weds Claude S. Bennett Tuesday Evening

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Estelle Chandler and Claude S. Bennett, which was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of the bride on St. Augustine place.

The ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Bell. The house was beautifully decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and amaryllis. The altar of palms was improvised in the spacious living room. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in every detail.

Bridal Party. The bride's party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Annie Bennett, sister of the groom. During the ceremony Rubenstein's "Melody in F" was softly rendered.

The bride's sister, Miss Beatrice Chandler, was maid of honor. She was dressed in pink georgette, over satin of the same shade, with silver trimmings. Her bouquet was pink roses tied with pink tulle.

The bride was a picture of girlish loveliness as she descended the stairs with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white satin crepe, elaborately beaded in pearls and crystals. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses, showered with valley lilies. Her only ornament was a platinum pin set with diamonds, the gift of the groom.

The bride was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Paul Ewing.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and adorned with the wedding cake, embossed with the names of the bride and groom, miniature doves and rosebuds. From the chandelier white tulle streamers extended to the corners of the table, where the bows were caught with pink rosebuds. Silver candlesticks held pink tapers.

Mrs. Charles Chandler, mother of the bride, was dressed in black georgette, exquisitely beaded, with a corsage of lavender sweetpeas. The mother of the groom wore black lace.

During the evening the bride and groom left for a trip to points of interest in Florida. The bride's going-away gown was of midnight-blue flat crepe. She wore a full model hat of gray.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will be at home at 35 St. Augustine place.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chandler, formerly of Birmingham, Ala. She was graduated from high school in Alabama, and completed her education at Agnes Scott college.

The groom is the second son of a recent graduate of the Atlanta Law school. During the world war he served with the Emory unit in France.

Were men always so thoughtless, she wondered. "Where are you going from New York, Gloria?" he asked. "I've got to see Thorpe Andrews' people, and look after some business. Going to be a town long."

"Only a day or two—then I'm going on to Lorraine Slater's country place, for a house party," she answered.

Lorraine Slater—oh, I used to know her; she was a little older than Virginia, wasn't she? Perfect beauty—married old Colonel Slater for his money, or something, and leads a gay, glad life while the living's good. Wonder if she'd remember me?"

Gloria sighed. She was running away from Crossways and its memories—and taking everyone from there with her, apparently!

She was tired, yet hated the thought of trying to go to sleep. She had had too much excitement, and wanted more. After dinner she settled down in a corner of her compartment, with the door and windows open, and Guy sat beside her, talking about himself, and occasionally about how much he liked her. She knew that her aunt wouldn't have approved of the situation, and felt rather uncomfortable about it. But if they were good and lived according to conventions, see what happened to you; you were hurt at Morton Phelps had hurt her. People who did just as they wanted to had the best time, she told herself definitely. And anyway, sinking there couldn't be so very shocking—it wasn't enough fun!

Household Suggestions

Keeps It Firm. A little vinegar added to the water when boiling fish will prevent the fish from separating.

Will Bake Better. When adding cooked currants to cookie batter, add them to the butter, egg and sugar mixture before adding the flour.

Stewed Rhubarb. A pinch of salt added to the rhubarb when stewing will neutralize the acidity of the fruit and less sugar is necessary.

For Scrubbing Wood. Cold water is better for floor scrubbing than warm, as it will dry quickly and not sink into the boards, causing them to rot.

A Seasonable Tip. Left-over rice and macaroni are just the things to stuff tomatoes and save you buying another vegetable for the next day's meal.

When Cleaning. Add a little common table salt to the gasoline when cleaning garments and that ugly ring around the place cleaned will be avoided. Brush off all salt before pressing.

BEAUTY CHATS

SUMMER FOOT TREATMENTS

I've headed this "Chat" "summer foot treatments" because I want to emphasize the fact that the feet need for dress-up, low heel canvas pumps, or plain kid sandals with heels as low as possible.

BLACKIE:—You can reduce the muscles of your face through massage, but only use enough oil on the tips of the fingers to act as a lubricant. If you cannot have this work done for you, be sure to learn all about the movements before you attempt them yourself; else you may stretch the skin or otherwise injure the contour of the face.

MRS. F. H. W.:—Diluted lemon juice, or that from cucumbers, will be all the bleach necessary for ordinary tanning. Always follow this treatment with cream or an oil application, as all bleaches neutralize the natural skin secretions, leaving them parched if not supplied with an oil.

WINIFRED:—As you are so stout in so much of the body, a general reduction through the diet would be best for you in attaining a better proportioned figure.

Tomorrow:—"Things You Should Know."

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbush will be answered in these columns, time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—columns in their turn. This requires The Editor.

Children to Enjoy July Fourth Program.

"Glorious Fourth" program is in store for the children Friday morning at the Howard theater, when the feature picture, instructional film, and prologue will each be of a patriotic nature.

"Cardigan," a select film, will be shown, and is an appropriate feature picture for the occasion, being an historical and fascinating story of the American revolution. The young hero, Michael Cardigan, has adventures that will stir the blood of any young American. The instructional film is called "The Life of George Washington," Metro production. There will also be an excellent comedy, starring Buster Keaton in "Neighbors."

Another feature of the program will be the prologue, "The Making of the First American Flag," which will be put on by Troop 2, of the Decatur Girl Scouts.

At the Alpha on Saturday there will be several good features on the program. Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack" is well worth a trip to see. "Dr. Jack" is a rather comedy and is one of the funniest in which Harold Lloyd has appeared. There will also be the 14th episode of the "Oregon Trail," "On Washington," in which Art Acord has some breath-taking adventures.

Mrs. G. H. Guy, chairman of chaperones, announces that the chaperones at the Howard theater on Friday morning will be: Mrs. J. K. Simmons, and Mrs. M. H. McClure, and at the Alpha theater, Saturday morning, Mrs. Guy and Mrs. W. P. Lemmon will assist Mrs. Ellis Barrett, co-chairman of chaperones.

Mrs. Alonso Richardson, president of the better films committee, and Mrs. Porter Langston, chairman of selected programs, urge the attendance of children at this matinee because of its exceptionally interesting historical character, and both Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Langston invite every member of the Children of the Confederacy and the Children of the Revolution to be the guests of the better films at the Howard theater at the Friday morning performance.

A MULTITUDE OF WOMEN RECOMMEND IT

The strongest recommendation possible for any medicine to have is the sound testimony borne by the vast multitudes of women who have used it. It has been proved that 98 out of every 100 women once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair have been restored to the joys of health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This marvelous record shows its power over the ills of women, and the letters of recommendation we are continually publishing in this paper should induce every ailing woman to try it.—(adv.)

Kenmore Association to Form Georgia Branch Here Today

A meeting will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Washington Seminary for the purpose of organizing the Atlanta branch of the Georgia Branches of the Kenmore association, of which Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscomb is chairman. The Kenmore association was formed in Fredericksburg, Va., in May of last year and has for its purpose the purchase and preservation of the beautiful mansion in that city which was the home of Betty Washington, bride of Colonel Fielding Lewis, and only sister of George Washington.

The president of the Kenmore association is Mrs. Vivian Minor Fleming, who was Miss Emily White, of Athens, Ga., and to whom is due the credit of gaining for the nation this beautiful mansion ranking with Mr. Vernon in history and said to be the "most exquisite colonial architectural treasure in America."

Branches of the association have been formed in Maryland and Tennessee. It is particularly fitting that the Georgia branch should be established as will be done Friday, Mrs. Joseph Madison High, of Atlanta, who was in Washington, D. C., at the time the Kenmore association came into being, who is known far and wide for her patriotic sentiments and good wishes, was the first to express great sympathy and interest in the cause and give encouragement to the founders.

At the meeting Friday Mrs. Lipscomb will preside. Those interested in this patriotic cause are invited to attend.

Riddles

BY IRVING BACHELLER

Next Week, "The Ragged Edge"
By Harold McGrath

"My good fellow, I am quite surprised by you," said Mrs. Travers. "It is—shall I say—natural that the best of men should have a bit of a fling now and then; but, really, I am astonished that you should have flung a brick at the dear old gentleman."

"I like a little excitement once in a while, but I have never tried to build it out of bricks," said Riddles with a smile.

"Quite so—of course," Travers agreed. "One has only to look into your face to be assured of that. I have heard of your good behavior here, and I need not say how much it has pleased me. If we may have the permission of these ladies I should like you to ride with me to the nearest village." Turning to the ladies, he added: "I shall not keep him long."

"Indeed, we are glad that you feel such an interest in him," said Mrs. Martin. "Uncle Sam, Jr., why don't you go with the gentleman? It's getting cool and you had better put on the overcoat that hangs in your closet."

"Thank you," said the hired man as he left them.

"I wish to have a talk with him," said Travers to the ladies.

"I am really quite interested in the fellow. For one of his class he is—"

"I should say most remarkable."

"I suppose he will talk to you more freely," said Mrs. Martin. "He is a little shy of me. I wish you could learn where he comes from and something about him. He must be a man of good connections."

"Anyhow, he's a man of very good sense," said Travers. "You may be sure I will do my best to enlighten you."

Riddles returned and, with Travers, entered the handsome limousine waiting in the drive, and drove away.

"Well, old man, what has happened to you?" Riddles asked.

Travers slapped his thigh and laughed. "Really, you know, I'm the luckiest man. I've married the dear old girl."

"What dear old girl?"

"Mrs. Pulsifer," Riddles exclaimed. "I didn't intend to set a trap for the widow Pulsifer when I gave you that suit of clothes."

"Dear Smith—don't worry! It's a great thing for both of us. You see she took to me at once. She loves the English. A rather rusty old dame, but a good heart, and kind on."

"She owns two big mills—cotton goods. I know something about the game. Made a few suggestions that she liked. We agreed perfectly on the subject of ethical substances. I got a friend of mine to come on from Boston in glad rags. He had a talk with the dear old girl about me. We were married, privately, next day. I have taken hold of the plants. They need me. I shall make good. No more poverty in mine."

"But that friend from Boston?" Riddles exclaimed. "It looks as if you had bunched the old lady."

"Dear Smith! It's not so bad as it looks. I am sure you know that industry is not all that it should have been, but my prospects are dazzling. I advertised the prospects. I did it with no intention of deceiving the old lady. I am really trying to be just what I pretend to be—a gentleman. I hope you do not think it so possible that I have no right to count upon it. You know, I slipped into the job by accident and I find it most agreeable. I'm going to stick to it. If you will help me, I shall succeed."

"But Travers! It's some contract," said Riddles. "You are wanted for murder, and in the same county where your wife is living."

"Dear Smith! As long as I can keep my courage I am in no danger. Nobody would know me. Anyhow, I have a wall of friends around my sacred form. I have played many parts, but this one of gentleman is my masterpiece because I love the part. You are the only critic I fear. You could ruin the play."

"First, I want to know if you have any other wife," Riddles demanded.

"She is my one and only wife."

"Just what do you intend to do?"

"I'm going to work and I shall make the old lady as happy as I can. She is a good soul. I like her. I've tried all the follies there are, dear Smith, but don't think that I have lost the power to appreciate a refined and decent woman. My mother was just that kind of woman."

In the talk of Travers there were signs of a deep change in him. Riddles sat thinking as he smoked the cigarette which Travers had given him.

"You're a clever man, but I wonder if you can put this over," said he. "You're in wrong so far—you've built on the sand—but if you really want to be sincere, I suppose you can move the structure to firm ground. Now I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to keep a watch on you. You go to work and do the right thing by the old lady. I'll do what I can to help you. If you don't—you will find yourself in the hands of the law."

"Dear Smith, I thank you!" Travers exclaimed. "You will see that I have a real gift for the art of being a gentleman."

There's a little too much art about you, you my boy," said Riddles. "Show me the chart of a gentleman and I'll tell you."

"My heart might be better, dear friend—I do not need to be reminded of that," said Travers. "Still it is improving. You will acknowledge that, dear Smith, when you know the truth. This morning I saw my brother-in-law, Mr. David Galt, and we had some talk about you."

A sudden, penetrating flash of light fell into the consciousness of the late Mr. Riddles, sweeping every shadow from its remote reaches. In the start-line surprise that cooperation he had failed to recall the fact that the impressionable Mrs. Pulsifer was the sister of David Galt. Travers had been quite right in thinking himself lucky.

"You are a clever man," said Riddles. "I wonder what was said about me."

"Dear Smith, he told me of the suspicions that were entertained of you. I told him the truth, that I had known you for some time, and had the highest regard for you, and that they were barking up the wrong tree."

"But what am I to do under examination?" Riddles asked. "I shall have to—"

"Tell the truth, I suppose," Travers interrupted. "I'll see that the examination is adjourned for a month. Then it may never have to come off."

Riddles sat in silence while Travers returned the sums he had borrowed.

"They were near the gate of Mrs. Martin's."

"If you don't mind, I'll drop you at the gate," said Travers as he signaled the driver. "I'm likely to be late to dinner, and some guests are coming. Dear Smith, I promise that my behavior will give you no cause for regret."

They parted, and as Riddles entered the gate he met Perry Riddles driving out.

"Mrs. Martin wishes to see you at once," said her maid when Riddles entered the kitchen. "You will find her in the library."

In a moment the hired man had found her and Miss Harriet. He did not get the pleasant greeting which he had been wont to receive from them. There was a touch of sternness in Mrs. Martin's voice when she said:

"Smith, we must have a frank talk with you. Sit down and tell us where you come from and who you are."

"Mrs. Martin, I thought you wanted help and not history," said Riddles.

"We didn't ask for references, but now I think we shall have to do it."

"It's a kind of a crime," said Riddles, "to agree with me that it is a little unusual for a hired man to be carrying $5,000 in his pocket."

"I'm ashamed of it, and I didn't intend for you to know it. But you see, I had to use that money to keep out of jail."

It is said that you have been a bank robber," the woman continued.

"I am told that the man who wore those tramp clothes was a violent socialist and a dynamiter. We have every reason to believe in you, but if you stay here we must know about you. Now that socialist who killed the man with a brick was known to Reuben Smith—there is said to be no doubt of that. I understand you to claim that the tramp's clothes which were left on the river shore were not the clothes which you had worn when you came here. Is that right?"

"It is," Riddles answered.

"Do you know to whom they belonged?"

"I would rather not answer that question just now," said Riddles, purely out of consideration for Travers.

Mrs. Martin rose from her chair.

"Have you nothing more to say to us?"

"At present, I've only this to say. I'm about as honest as men average, and if you'll trust me a little while I'll prove it to you."

Mrs. Martin answered, "Reuben Smith. I shall have to ask you to go."

Miss Harriet rose and said, "Mother, no one can make me believe that Uncle Sam, Jr., is not an honest man."

"Miss Harriet, I thank you for your belief in me. I have promised that, some day, you shall know that I am as honest as I pretend to be. I ask you to wait until I am ready to tell you. Stick to your faith in me—no matter what they say."

Turning to Mrs. Martin, he added, "I want to thank you both for all your kindness. I'll never forget it. If you'll please send me down to Courtville, I'll put on the farm suit and bid you good-by."

"Keep the clothes you have on—they'll be more comfortable," said Mrs. Martin.

"No, I'm going just as I came," Riddles insisted.

"How much shall I pay you?"

"Leave that to you. Only don't make it too much."

Riddles left them to change his clothes.

"I hate to see him go," said Miss Harriet while her mother was writing a check to the order of Reuben Smith. "I don't see what else we can do."

"We have mother's answer."

When Riddles was going out of the door, Mrs. Martin said, "We want to thank you for all you have done for us."

"I ain't really had a chance to do much yet," said Riddles. "I'd like to see an' maybe I can come time. Well see."

"It's a shame that it should end this way," said Miss Harriet. Riddles stood up straight and answered in his own fashion of speech: "It isn't ended yet. I'm coming back with the young man and a certificate of good character. With that he left the farm where he had so many curious adventures."

A mile out of the village the car that conveyed him was stopped by Bradshaw. The latter was in his new delivery truck.

Riddles left the Martin car and got in with Bradshaw, who said:

"I was going out to see you. There's a good deal of excitement in the village. All kinds of wild rumors are flying about, and I have heard that they intend to arrest you again tonight. This time it will be for bank robbery. I thought you might be in need of help. What can I do?"

"Thanks. I'm anxious to get home," said Riddles. "Drive me across country to some town where I can buy clothes and hop into a motor car. How's the store?"

"Crowded to the doors all day. It's going to be a good deal to this community. The neighbors are scared."

Waters came today with a proposition to buy us out. I told him that he hadn't money enough to buy us out. "That's right. Now, Bradshaw, don't do any talking about me. On the day of the examination I'll show up with some witnesses and prove an alibi, and at the same time wipe out the bank-robber theory."

They drove to Williamstown, where Riddles bought a ready-made suit and overcoat. Then, after supper, he hired a motor car, and set out in the darkness for Belleharbor.

The next day Riddles, clean-shaven and in a fashion of dress familiar to his friends, entered the office of the factory in Belleharbor. The men had returned to their work.

"What a change!" said Galt as he greeted the master of the works. "You look as fit as when you were captain of the football team years ago. Your skin has the hue of copper; your eyes are as bright as a boy's."

"Yes—it's your turn now," said Galt. "When they found that they had no one to fight with, they were disappointed. Suddenly the black pall of prohibition had fallen on the town. It was benedictory. They were filled with gloom, anger and profanity. Nothing but soft drinks at the bar. The enthusiasm of the strikers lacked the stimulation to which it had been accustomed. At home the kids were bawling and the wife scolding more or less. The wife couldn't strike. She was naturally irritated by her man and his friends loafing about the place. They were in the way. Soon a committee came to me with a perfectly sane and reasonable demand. We had no difficulty in reaching an agreement and the works were opened."

"I also have good news to report," said Riddles. "I have found the girl. She is a wonder—good-hearted, witty, modest, beautiful and gifted with common sense."

"And you didn't make love to her?" "I couldn't, even if I had had a mind to turn traitor."

"Why not?"

"That's a long story and I haven't time to go into it now. I've been playing fool, and some day I'll confess the details."

Within a day a letter from Henry Bradshaw notified Mr. Riddles that their attorney had secured an adjournment of the examination for one month, as its date interfered with the holiday plans of the prosecuting officer.

New York, July 5.—A further decline during today's early trading in cotton was followed by covering, which appeared to be started by a few of the more active buyers.

A less favorable weekly review of crop conditions from the weather bureau than expected and was later stimulated by reports of a better tone in the cotton market, leading off to 23.22, or 43 points net lower, October rallied to 23.88, or 23 points net higher, and closed at 23.77.

The general list closed steady and declines of 2 to 7 points on August and September, but generally 15 to 40 points net higher.

The market opened easy at a decline of 2 to 20 points, in response to weak Liverpool cables and reports of good weather in the south over the Fourth.

There was considerable buying by houses with Japanese connections, but the demand was generally unresponsive to selling, encouraged by expectations of a very favorable weekly weather report, the unsettled early ruling of the stock market and the complaints of a continued poor demand for cotton goods.

July was relatively easy under liquidation, selling off to 23.00, or 43 points net lower, while new crop months showed net losses of about 40 to 45 points with December touching 22.75 during the middle of the morning.

The weekly review of the weather bureau said that cotton had made late to very good progress, but that the late planted in dry sections where it was poor, but mentioned so many poor spots in the belt and contained so many references to the fact that the cotton was not doing well, that it proved a disappointment to recent sellers. This started covering, and the afternoon was distinctly steadier.

There was very little July for sale after the early break and that month led the rally, selling up to 23.45, or 45 points, with December selling at 23.58. The close was 23.77, or 45 points off from the best under realizing.

New York, July 5.—Spot cotton quiet, middling 23.75.

PRICES UP IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, July 5.—The early and middle sessions in the cotton market today brought declines, but the late session showed a fairly good recovery, with prices from net declines to net gains on the day, the close being 8 to 17 points net higher, with July at a range of 23.00 to 23.77, and December at 23.00 to 23.13. For a while, July was almost inactive and liquidation in that position appeared to have been carried to an advanced stage.

Poor cables and the raising of the Bank of England rate to 4 per cent caused a lower opening. Weakness in England continued, the cash rate in the stock market on this side of the water helped to make a very soft market for a while. Further selling came in the afternoon, but the weather over the belt and also on the general tone of the official weekly weather and crop reports, which was considered good, helped to keep the market from falling too far.

Rallies in the early morning helped to increase demand, and late in the day July was up to 23.42, and October up to 23.20, with the trading months showing net gains over Tuesday's close of 13 to 25 points.

Ansley Memorial Committee Will Be Named Soon

Plans for the establishment of a memorial to the late Edwin P. Ansley, prominent real estate operator and developer and leading citizen, began to take definite form Thursday when George M. Brown, Jr., president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, announced that within a few days he will appoint a committee of local realtors to ascertain the public sentiment toward such a movement.

Mr. Brown expressed himself strongly in favor of the suggested memorial. Favorable action on the matter by the real estate board is expected, he said.

Robert E. Otis, who made the first public suggestion regarding the memorial, briefly addressed the board Thursday at its weekly luncheon and outlined his reasons for proposing such a tribute. He highly praised

Mr. Ansley for his public spiritedness, business ability and high ideals.

Appointment of the special committee of realtors was asked by him. The suggestion of Mr. Otis, published in The Constitution Thursday, appeared to find immediate public favor. A number of leading Atlantans Thursday expressed themselves heartily in accord with Mr. Otis.

Body of Former Gwinnett Deputy Is Found In Field

Charleston, S. C., July 5.—The body of Louis H. McGowan, of Quitman, Ga., who lost his life yesterday evening at the Isle of Palms when the airplane from which, after setting afire, he was to drop by parachute suddenly got out of control and plunged into the ocean, was recovered before daybreak this morning.

No water was found in the dead man's lungs, it was reported, and it is believed that his death was caused by the forces of impact when the plane struck the water. The body will be sent to Quitman for burial.

BURY MCGOWAN IN QUITMAN

Quitman, Ga., July 5.—(Special.) The body of Louis McGowan, who fell to his death in the sea off the Isle of Palms in a Fourth of July flying exhibition, will reach Quitman tomorrow for interment.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McGowan, were in Vidalia when the news of the tragedy came and reached home this afternoon in their car. McGowan was a Quitman boy and had been flying professionally about two years. He had appeared with the Cody Flying Circus at many fairs and thrived crowds in his home town at the county fair. He is survived by his parents, his young widow, a sister and two brothers, Norman McGowan, of Quitman, and Clifton McGowan, who is in the U. S. navy now in Honolulu.

While enroute from his home to Atlanta about three months ago, shortly before daybreak, the former deputy was fired upon from ambush. He escaped injury at that time, although the windshield of his automobile was shattered.

ble was shattered by the bullets. In the spring of 1922 he killed two Simpson boys during an argument over search of their automobile for liquor. He was tried at the fall term of Gwinnett court and was exonerated on one of the charges. It is understood he still was under bond on the other charge, but this could not be verified as the courthouse had closed for the day when word of finding of the body reached Lawrenceville, the county seat.

The slain man is survived by a widow and several children. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

FAILURE TO AID EUROPE SCORED BY UNDERWOOD

might make the world a better place in which to live.

Declaring that government abroad is almost as uncertain and insecure as finance, Senator Underwood said the various governments are drifting to save their faces, without definite policies.

"Our governmental arm," the statement continued, "seems paralyzed so far as help in that direction is concerned. We seem to be standing in respect to the affairs of Europe without apology, without courage of conviction, with out anything that goes to make a man a man, or government a government. We seem to be just observing and drifting at least so far as the public is allowed to know. We continue to drift down stream and roar of the cataract can be heard ahead."

It would not be necessary for the United States to enter the league of nations or the world court to discharge its obligations, the Alabama senator asserted, adding that the United States must have a policy looking to the ultimate peace of the world and rehabilitation of shattered financial conditions.

Disaster Predicted.

"Distressed economic conditions in the European states," Mr. Underwood predicted, "will sooner or later, unless they are remedied, bring distress and disaster to our people at home. Most of this might have been avoided if we had played our part when the great war closed, but we did not. We rejected the treaty of Versailles and have put nothing in its place. We might have been for on the highway to permanent peace and restored business and industrial conditions if we had thrown the predominating forces of our great potential powers in favor of a permanent, stabilizing and upbuilding program for the rehabilitation of Europe. The question that confronts us is whether or not we shall continue to pursue a dominating policy."

Senator Underwood expressed the opinion that there is nothing in an international court that can either solve or direct the difficult and dangerous economic and financial problems that are paralyzing the onward progress of business development in Europe.

"A wise and progressive policy," he added, "is needed, not the hazy motion of a court of law."

MILITARISTS SEEK TO USE RHINELAND

up and down, and just now it is rather much in the air. The most intense opposition to it comes less from the Rhineland itself than from the rest of Germany, which would feel outraged to see this territory taken or depar of its own accord.

Locally where the occupying armies have been for more than four years, the public is on the best of terms with them, especially with the British. Indeed, the money spent by the British officers and men is counted as an asset by local tradesmen.

The American reader, of course, must not confuse the Rhineland with the Ruhr district which the French went into last January. In that territory the opposition to the French occupation army grows more intense every day, until now the French are compelled to resort to a policy of frightfulness not differing much from that which the German army followed during the war and which the French, then the victim instead of the conqueror, denounced so violently.

Evacuation Improbable.
Among the people of the Ruhr there is a notion that as a result of pending negotiations France may cease to occupy the Ruhr immediately. To an observer fresh from Paris that seems to be most improbable. The sternness of the French occupation of the Ruhr tends to stiffen all the German people, including those living in the Rhineland, against the thought of the Rhineland as a buffer state and against everything else in the nature of a compromise or amelioration.

For the moment the feeling of self-conscious national solidarity is very strong. One plan recently discussed here, with only a vague knowledge of whether it is possible, is that if the occupation of the Ruhr must continue cupping army grows more intense every day, until now the French are compelled to resort to a policy of frightfulness not differing much from that which the German army followed during the war and which the French, then the victim instead of the conqueror, denounced so violently.

Evacuation Improbable.
Among the people of the Ruhr there is a notion that as a result of pending negotiations France may cease to occupy the Ruhr immediately. To an observer fresh from Paris that seems to be most improbable. The sternness of the French occupation of the Ruhr tends to stiffen all the German people, including those living in the Rhineland, against the thought of the Rhineland as a buffer state and against everything else in the nature of a compromise or amelioration.

For the moment the feeling of self-conscious national solidarity is very strong. One plan recently discussed here, with only a vague knowledge of whether it is possible, is that if the occupation of the Ruhr must continue there should be substituted for the presence of the French alone a joint occupation including the English army, which has become so well-liked where it is now.
